HITLER, DUCE IN RED DEAL

Italy Ready to Fight for Nazis

HITLER, DUCE IN RED DEAL

BERLIN, March 18 (AP)—Extension of the Rome-Berlin axis to Moscow and possibly eventual participation of Italy in the European war on Germany's side were cited today by excellently informed Berlin circles as the main apparent results of today's historic Brenner Pass meeting between Hitler and Mussolini.

The two statesmen appeared to have worked on plans for a complete reorganization of Europe, with Soviet Russia as their partner.

Berlin was filled with rumors that German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop would confer with Russian Premier-Foreign Commissar Molotoff as soon as possible, either in Berlin or Moscow.

Hitler and Mussolini were said to have agreed on possible ultimate participation of Italy in the European war on Germany's side if and when such a course should be deemed preferable to the present status of Italy as "not neutral and yet not waging war."

Until the time should come for filling in the date for a declaration of war, it was said, Italy would lose no opportunity to demonstrate to the western powers that she is Germany's ally economically, politically and ideologically.

Italy, for instance, abruptly ceased furnishing certain implements of war to France as she had done hitherto.

The present German-Italian coal agreement will be followed by other agreements for putting resources of each other at the disposal of the other axis partner. The coal agreement, to furnish the major part of Italy's coal needs by rail, followed upon the British blockade of German coal being shipped by water.)

In the event of Italy's entering the war, it was said Germany would supply her partner with all the things necessary for waging modern war.

Hitler and Mussolini further agreed, according to sources considered gilt-edged, that an Italian-Russian rapprochement must follow next.

This in turn involves careful delineation of spheres of influence in the Balkans.

Among the first statesmen in the world to learn the details of today's momentous border meeting between the Fascist and Nazi leaders will be United States Undersecretary of State Welles to whom it was said Mussolini would divulge such details as seemed expedient before the American sails for home Wednesday.

Thus, as seen here, President Roosevelt will be given one more chance to find some formula for tempting Great Britain and France on the one hand and Germany and ROME, March 18 (INS)—First in absolute privacy, and later flanked by close advisers, Premier Mussolini and Reichsfuehrer Hitler held their fifth and possibly most momentous conference in the isolation of a railway carriage at the Brenner Pass today.

A brief formal communique issued in Rome after the meeting threw absolutely no light on the matters discussed or the outcome. It said:

"Il Duce and the Fuehrer had a cordial interview at Brennero in the Duce's saloon carriage, lasting two hours and a half."

At 10:10 a. m. Hitler arrived in the little border town of Brennero by special train and after brief formalities entered Mussolini's private saloon car where for an hour they talked completely alone and unattended, with even their respective foreign ministers excluded.

The Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, and German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, the latter of whom engineered the meeting on his last visit to Rome, were called in, and a two-hour discussion ensued, in what was termed a most cordial atmosphere.

At 1:11 p. m., three hours and one minute after his arrival, Hitler started his journey back to Berlin. At that time no official light had been thrown on the purpose or nature of the conference.

When their conversation was over, Mussolini and Hitler appeared

Peace or War? Fortnight'll Tell

ROME, March 18 (INS)—The last week of March will see a decision between a general western offensive or a compromise peace, the Italian newspaper Lavoro Fascista reported from Berlin today.

"The majority of Germans anticipate an offensive," the paper said.

WHEN HERR HITLER AND MUSSOLINI HELD LAST CONFERENCE

Report Chamberlain to Shuffle Cabinet to Speed War Policy

LONDON, March 18 (AP)—Germany's boldest aerial stroke of the war—a one hour and 25 minute raid by 14 Heinkel bombers on the Scapa Flow naval anchorage—was followed today by expressions of belief in political quarters that Prime Minister Chamberlain is planning a drastic cabinet change to institute a more dynamic war policy.

The British press clamored for a greater initiative in the government's direction of the war and the sharp division of opinion on Chamberlain's conduct of it was heightened by scheduled debate in the House of Commons tomorrow. Laborites, Liberals and some Conservatives were expected to press for more vigorous action.

Informed political observers expressed the conviction that Chamberlain is planning ministerial changes soon, probably after the Easter parliamentary recess starting Thursday.

Some thought he might adopt the pattern set in the World War by David Lloyd George for a small war cabinet engaged solely in direction of higher war policy with all departmental routine given to ministers outside the cabinet.

MIGHT CALL LLOYD GEORGE

In such a plan it was considered likely that Chamberlain would retain in the streamlined cabinet these three—Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty; Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon and Lord Halifax, foreign secretary.

There were indications that he might seek again to induce the Labor and Liberal leaders, Clement R. Attlee and Sir Archibald Sinclair, to join the government, which they refused to do at the beginning of the war, but it was regarded still doubtful that they would accept.

Lloyd George, the World War prime minister, also was mentioned in speculation on possible Cabinet personnel.

In the most outspoken demand thus far for a cabinet shakeup and

Connolly Is Cleared On 16 'Job' Counts

By directed jury verdict, John Patrick Connolly, former clerk of Suffolk Superior Civil Courts, was cleared today on 13 of 21 counts of requesting and accepting presents and rewards and on three of 11 counts of requesting and accepting gratuities while holding county office.

The 16 "not guilty" findings were ordered by Judge George F. Leary in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court, where Connolly and his alleged "good will fund" collector, William T. Conway, are on trial on indictments growing out of alleged "pay to stay" collections of money from Connolly office employes.

Also by directed verdict, Conway was cleared today of all 15 counts on which he was indicted as alleged accessory before the fact to requesting and accepting of gratuities by a county officer.

Judge Leary ordered further not guilty findings in Conway's behalf on two of 15 counts of soliciting bribes.

Guilt or innocence of both Connolly and Conway on indictments charging them with conspiracy and on remaining counts of the other indictments was left for the jury to determine.

It was expected the case would go to the jury late today after final arguments by counsel and the charge by Judge Leary.

Today's directed verdicts cleared Conway of felony guilt, but left him charged with numerous misdemeanor counts.

Connolly remained on trial on both felony and misdemeanor charges.

ARE PLACED IN DOCK

Penalty on the felony indictment might be either a state prison sentence up to a maximum of 10 years or a combined fine and jail sentence, the fine not to exceed $5000, the jail sentence not to exceed two years.

Maximum penalty on the misdemeanor indictments would be two and a half years in the House of Correction.

In an unexpected move, Judge Leary ordered both Connolly and Conway placed in the defendants' dock, a low-walled wire "cage" in the center of the courtroom.

They had previously been allowed to sit with their lawyers at defense counsel's table.

Final argument for the defense was opened by Atty. Herbert F. Callahan, counsel for Conway.

Atty. Abner R. Sisson was to sum up later for Connolly, Asst. Dist.

PLANES AND SHIPS SEEK 7 FISHERMEN

Off over a 5400 square mile area in the north Atlantic today winged four seaplanes, steamed four ships of the Coast Guard, bent on the rescue of seven fishermen.

Theirs was the task of saving from the deep the crew of the Gloucester dragger Providenza—seven men from Boston, including a North End father and his four sons.

Two of the planes flew from New York at the special request of Boston division headquarters of the Coast Guard.

Grave fears were expressed by brother fishermen for the safety of the Providenza and crew. The vessel had failed to arrive at Commercial Wharf, Boston, last Thursday after a short scheduled fishing trip off Cape Ann.

For 48 hours relatives and friends of the fishermen had waited anxiously.

FIVE IN ONE FAMILY

Then, still without word from the boat, they appealed for Coast Guard assistance. The search started Saturday, widened Sunday, intensified today.

Five of the crew are members of

Children 'Help Mama,' Scald Baby in 'Bath'

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Three-year-old Martin Neville and his little sister tried to "help mama" while she was at Palm Sunday services, and as a result their three-months-old sister is in the hospital with serious burns and a possible fractured skull.

Martin and his sister, Evelyn, 18 months old, decided to give the baby a bath. As their father, a night engineer, slept a few feet away, they lifted the baby out of her crib, dragged her across the floor by her nightgown to the bathroom, and tried to put her into the tub, but dropped her, and her head hit the floor.

Undaunted, they got a toy sand bucket and poured scalding water on her. The baby's cries finally awakened the father.

"Daddy," little Martin cried out, "we're giving the baby a bath—we're helping mama."

TO WRITE BOOK—Six and a half years in an "iron lung," Celia Surovsky, 28, today planned the beginning of a book . . . "to share my happiness with those who imagine they have trouble." The paralysis victim, at City Hospital, has made progress in recent months and a few weeks ago sent a message of hope to a "man who had nothing to live for" because he couldn't find a job.

BLIND WIDOW NEAR DEATH IN FLAMES

Her nightgown ignited when she attempted to light an oil heater, Mrs. Jennie F. Paton, 59-year-old blind widow, was so badly burned today in her Dorchester apartment that she may die.

At City Hospital, where she was taken in a police ambulance, she was found to have been burned over her face and body, with the exception of the legs, and her name was placed on the danger list.

Albert T. Lyne, occupant of the second floor in the house in Ashmont park, told police he heard screams from Mrs. Paton's third-floor apartment and his Boston terrier, Buddy, raced upstairs and then returned, barking frantically.

Lyne ran upstairs. Receiving no answer to his knock, he forced open the door and found the blind widow in flames on her bed.

With Buddy barking excitedly and attempting to pull away the bedclothing with his teeth, Lyne wrapped the woman in a comforter, snatched her from the bed and placed her on a couch.

Then he picked up the burning mattress and other clothing off the bed and threw them them from the window.

Meanwhile Mrs. Lyne had telephoned police and the fire department, and when firemen arrived they gave the widow first aid and she was placed in the police ambulance.

Before she lapsed into unconsciousness, Mrs. Paton gasped out that she had been attempting to light the heater, and that her nightgown was ignited; she had groped her way back to the bed and attempted to extinguish the flames by rolling in the bed clothing.

A son, Richard, and a daughter, Ruth, had gone to work only a short time before the accident.

Damage to the apartment by the fire was only $50.

WOMAN TESTIFIES FROM STRETCHER

Lying on a stretcher, on which she had been carried in an ambulance from the hospital, a Brighton woman today testified in Brighton court in connection with an automobile accident last December which resulted in one of her legs being amputated.

With Mrs. Mollie Swartz, 40, of Strathmore rd., was her 11-year-old daughter, Marilyn, who suffered a broken leg in the accident.

At the end of the hearing Harrison H. Fogg, 18, of Brighton ave., Allston, was found guilty of driving dangerously and was fined $100. He appealed.

The woman, her voice weak and tremulous, testified from the wheel stretcher that she and her daughter, in the evening of Dec. 8, were on their way to visit a friend in Hatherly rd., Brighton.

While crossing at Chiswick rd. and Chestnut Hill ave., she said, she heard the screeching of brakes "and then I grabbed my little girl—and that's all I remember."

The woman was dragged 35 feet by the car, it was testified, and skid marks in the center of the intersection ran for 45 feet.

Young Fogg and a youth who said he was his companion testified the car was moving at about 25 miles per an hour turning into Chiswick rd. from Chestnut Hill ave.

$1,158,000 Snow Bill in Boston

Mayor Tobin revealed today that it cost Boston $1,158,000 to dig its way out of the St. Valentine's Day blizzard.

In a supplementary budget sent to the City Council, the Mayor requested appropriations to cover expenditures of $1,150,000 by the Public Works Department, $6000 for overtime by Park Department employes and $2000 for overtime of paymasters in the treasurer's office.

The 13,500 emergency shovellers engaged in the work, the mayor reported, received $450,000 in wages. The balance went for hire of various equipment and contractors.

At the office of the budget commissioner, examination of the records revealed the snow removal cost was the highest recorded since the figures have been segregated from public works department costs.

Grill Taxi Men In Navy Death

Scores of taxidrivers were being questioned today by Cambridge police and Boston detectives in an effort to trace the movements of Charles Ormand, 62-year-old navy "civilian expert," who died of mysterious injuries following his arrest for drunkenness.

There is a gap of seven hours between the time Ormand paid in advance for a room at the Charlestown Y. M. C. A. at 5 p. m. Tuesday and the time he was found lying in a Cambridge doorway five minutes after midnight.

Within this period there are two hours—between 5 p. m., when he obtained the room, and 7:30 p. m., when he told the clerk he would return—which police believe may hold the key to the mystery.

When Ormand hired the room at the Y. M. C. A. he was known to have had considerable money in his possession.

Yet when he was taken to the Cambridge police station, after being found in the doorway, he had only 15 cents in his pockets.

Although police booked him on a charge of drunkenness—reporting they observed no injuries on him—the man's son, Chester Ormand, 25-year-old Harvard Law School student, asserted his father never drank.

And the elder Ormand's head injuries were not discovered until late Wednesday morning when, after he had been too ill to go into East Cambridge court, he had been turned over to East Cambridge jail authorities.

Taken to Cambridge City Hospital, he died on Friday from a cerebral hemmorrhage, according to Medical Examiner David C. Dow.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 18 (AP)—Twenty-five persons were killed and 70 injured today when a passenger train crowded with army reservists was wrecked by an avalanche in a narrow canyon.

FREE GIRLS BUT 2 BOYS ARE GUILTY

Because evidence against them was lacking, three young girls were freed today in Central Municipal Court even though Judge Donovan said that in his mind they were equally guilty with two boy companions of attempted larceny of an automobile.

The five youthful defendants, all represented by attorneys, rested their cases following police testimony.

One boy was held in $2000 bail following his appeal from a finding of guilty.

The other was found not guilty, but was sentenced to 10 days in jail for operating a car after his auto license had been revoked.

The girls found not guilty are Nora Lynch, 17, of Dorchester ave., South Boston; Patricia Hession, 18, of Bowdoin st., Dorchester, and Rose Mitabito, 19, of Woodward pl., South Boston.

The boys are John P. McDonough, 19, sentenced to 10 days, and William McGonigle, 19, who appealed from an attempted larceny conviction.

Both boys are from South Boston.

20 Gang Killings Are [illegible]amed On Murder-to-Orde[illegible]ombine

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—A murder-to-order combine which kille[illegible]t for "big shot" racketeers was said today by a Brooklyn prosecutor to have been responsib[illegible]least a dozen—possibly 20—gangland slayings.

Brooklyn District Attorney William F. O'Dwyer said 10 men were under arrest in connection with the crime. He said the gang was implicated in seven murders and two attempted slayings in Brooklyn, and three killings in Sullivan County in up-state New York.

Youthful gunmen, described as "young punks," did the trigger work under agreements with such racket overlords as Lucky Luciano, imprisoned Manhattan vice king; Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, and Jacob (Gurrah) Shapiro, O'Dwyer said.

The prosecutor quoted one informer as saying the gang leaders had boasted to him of having "rubbed out" seven witnesses in District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's Buchalter trial.

TWO SPILL STORIES

In one case, the district attorney said, the "rubout ring" shot to death Irving Penn, 42-year-old music executive, whom they mistook for a Dewey witness in the Lepke case.

District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx, who conferred with O'Dwyer on the Penn case, characterized the arrests as "the most important clean-up of underworld characters that I have seen in 15 years as a law officer."

Two young members of the syndicate, fearful they would be deserted by their leaders and left to face alone charges under which they now are held, spilled their stories, O'Dwyer said. He named them as Anthony (Duke) Maffetore and Abraham (Pretty) Levine.

Levine told O'Dwyer he had tried to go straight and that he was married and had a 16-months-old daughter. The mob leaders, however, wouldn't allow him to ease out of the racket.

KILLED FOR $3

Sums of $10 and $20—sometimes as little as $3—were paid for the killings. O'Dwyer said the combine "had a finger in almost any racket you can name . . . prostitution, extortion, intimidation of business, murder, gambling and what have you."

Tryst Wife's Name Sent to Prosecutor

SALEM, March 18—The name of Thelma G. Clement who lost her fight against her husband's "Babe in Arms" divorce action was sent today to the office of Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg of Essex County.

This sequel to the pretty 21-year-old Lynn mother's unsuccessful attempt to block Arthur Clement's divorce plea on the grounds of infidelity with persons unknown, is required by law.

Following the granting of the plea to Clement which also gives him custody of their three-year-old son, Edward Arthur, the court is required to forward the name of the party charged with infidelity to the district attorney.

Action is up to Dist. Atty. Cregg, who could not be reached immediately for comment.

This latest development in the Clement case follows a bitter legal battle in Probate Court last week before Judge John V. Phelan.

After listening to testimony of the husband that he had carried their two-year-old son in his arms on six occasions while tracking his wife to trysts with other men, Judge Phelan granted the divorce and custody of the boy to the husband.

Mrs. Clement denied the charges but admitted hearing and did not deny testimony of a Lynn doctor who said she had told him of intimate relations with another patient of his.

Broadway Beauty Failure Suicide by Poison

NEW YORK, March 18 (INS) — Diminutive, red-haired Beatrice Frazier, 20, a Memphis, Tenn., beauty who tried to conquer Broadway, apparently tired of her efforts during a "forget-it-all" party, drank poison and turned on the gas while her unemployed sweetheart slept.

When police arrived at her $10-a-week basement apartment they found an empty quart whisky bottle, a nearly empty half-gallon jug of wine and a dozen empty beer bottles.

A much smaller bottle labeled poison lay unstopped on the floor, revealing the nature of the girl's farewell nightcap to life.

Once, Edward Julian, 38, World War veteran with whom she lived, was awakened by escaping gas, he told detectives. But he explained that he was accustomed to her oft-repeated suicide threats, so turned off the jets, put her back to bed and resumed his slumbers.

Julian, questioned for hours, admitted he and the girl had violently quarreled after the break-up of their party, but declared that he had no knowledge of how she got the poison.

Police telegraphed her sister, Mrs. Josephine Murphee, 342 Goodland ave., Memphis, for instructions as to the disposition of the body.

From time to time the dead girl worked as a dime-a-dance hostess, tried out numerous times as a chorus girl, and occasionally worked at a waitress. Her stage name was "Dixie" Moore. Like Julian, she had been out of work for several weeks.

Boom Martin for Convention Leader

WASHINGTON, March 18 (INS) —Governor Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, and G. O. P. House Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, are today outstanding favorites among Republican leaders for election as temporary and permanent chairman, respectively, of their presidential convention.

Holy Week Record Attendance Seen

HOLY PALMS

Greater Boston clergymen today looked forward to Holy Week observances of near record-breaking attendance after the religious enthusiasm shown Palm Sunday.

Amid a background of palms, traditional ceremonies and stirring music, churches were crowded as they have not been filled on Palm Sunday in recent years, churches reported.

The solemn rites will rise toward a peak from the glorious celebration of Holy Thursday and the sadness of Good Friday to the joy of the risen Christ on Easter Sunday. The Lenten season ends at noon Easter Saturday.

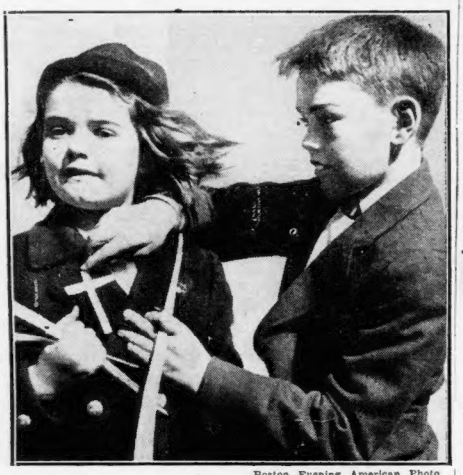
Numerous special services have been arranged by downtown churches of all denominations for the remainder of the Holy Week.

The Rev. Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, dean of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J., was scheduled to conduct noonday services at the Cathedral of St. Paul, through Thursday. At Good Friday noon, Canon Cornelius P. Trowbridge will conduct a three-hour service.

Dr. Walter A. Maier, known throughout the nation on the Lutheran Hour, will speak at noonday services at the Old South Meeting House, Thursday and Friday.

Noonday services at Park st. Church were being conducted by the Rev. Dr. Harold J. Ockenga. At King's Chapel, Dr. Palfrey Perkins was scheduled to conduct noonday ceremonies through Friday.

Blessed palms, commemorating the triumphant entry of Christ into Jerusalem a few days before his crucifixion and death, were distributed at masses in all Catholic churches Sunday.



Boston Evening American Photo

HOLY WEEK—Diane and Peter Wodyatt Bowman of Beacon street, leave Emmanuel Church with palms after Holy Week services preceding Easter observance next Sunday.

In Catholic churches the chanting of the Tenebrae Wednesday night will introduce the services commemorating the Passion of Christ.

On Thursday Catholics observe the pious custom of visiting seven churches for the adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, exposed on flower-banked altars. On Friday the mass of the pre-sanctified will be celebrated, with special three-hour services beginning at noon.

State Police Hunt Gaming Hi-Jackers

MILFORD, March 18—State police today took a hand in tracking down a gang of dice game hi-jackers, whose latest raid netted them $2500 here in one of the biggest games in Worcester county.

Three "two-gun" bandits forced 25 victims to strip off their pants and then leisurely went through the pockets.

While police were told of the daring robbery, no report was officially made to them by any of the red-faced victims, who silently donned their clothes when the bandits left and silently made their way home.

The game was a regular Sunday feature in a Main st. block and was reported to be one of the "biggest" games in this area. At least 25 men, according to reports of the victims, were gathered around the dice table when the bandits appeared.

All three were "young men" and each carried two guns.

IF HE'S SICK—TRY A LICK

If Junior is sick, give him a lollypop. So advised Dr. Otto C. Yens in a health lecture at Cambridge City Hospital. The lollypop, he explained, represents one of the best means of supplying the sick child with nutrition and with sugar necessary to combat acidosis.

FULLER TO FIGHT FOR DEWEY

Indicating he would fight for Thomas E. Dewey to the last ditch, former Gov. Fuller today assumed his most active political role in a decade.

The former governor, lashing out at Massachusetts Republican leaders, declared that Dewey would receive a four to one endorsement for the Republican nomination for President in this state if the people had not been "robbed of their vote."

He charged that G. O. P. leaders had killed the presidential preference primary bill in the state senate so they could deliver delegates "to the highest bidder." He warned "the bosses" might nominate "another Harding in some smoke-filled room at 3 o'clock in the morning."

Breaking his usual silence on matters political, Fuller urged all delegates to assure voters the Dewey's candidacy "would receive the consideration it was entitled to." He said:

"Are we so weak or unintelligent here in Massachusetts that we can't make any contribution toward the selection of the Republican candidate for president?

"Are we safe in resting back and allowing these self-appointed delegates to pick and choose for their own reasons, or to assign their votes to some leader with an axe to grind?

"If enough delegates could be kept from voting for Dewey on the first half dozen ballots, then the chances are that six or a dozen men at the Republican convention will pick out the candidate as they have on many occasions heretofore.

"The average politician would be opposed to Dist. Atty. Dewey because the average Republican politician wouldn't want a district attorney who would cause the arrest or prosecute other than Democrats. There isn't very much difference between 'run-of-the-mill' Republicans and Democrats in this respect. They are both hungry for about the same food. Their aide, if you believe them, is all 'Angel' and the other all 'Devil.'

"Who killed the presidential primary bill? This crime of robbing the voters of their say in respect to their preference for President was done with malice aforethought. When this bill was killed the insiders knew what they were planning to do. The voters may not take this lying down! Who ordered the presidential preference primary bill killed? Who killed Cock Robin? I urge those who are candidates for delegates to the Republican convention to assure the voters that Dist. Atty. Dewey's candidacy will receive the consideration it is entitled to. Thousands of voters wish to be assured that the Massachusetts delegation are going to give Dewey a square deal."

Remove Stalled Car As Train Whizzes By

John A. East of Clinton st., Cambridge sped in all directions before he finally found a telephone to advise police his car was stalled on the railroad tracks. Frantically, police helped a private wrecker haul the machine off the Somerville grade crossing of the Boston & Maine.

A minute later a terrific breeze fanned their feverish brows. It was the west bound train.

Barrymore Loses Title as 'Great Profile'

BALTIMORE, Md., March 18 (INS)—Attention John Barrymore!

The title of "The Great Profile of 1940" now belongs to Albert Dekker, a comparatively unknown Hollywood actor, as far as the co-eds at Blue Ridge College, New Windsor, Md., are concerned.

Barrymore was dethroned in a poll, results of which were announced today, after the Southern belles had examined thousands of photographs from Hollywood studios.

Nelson Eddy emerged runner-up in the profile hunt.

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD E. DAHL
Their War Separation Ends

DAHL FINDS WIFE'S LOVE BIT CHILLED

NEW YORK, March 18—The troubles of bewildered Harold E. Dahl, 30, American aviator-adventurer, vanished one by one here today—all save those in the love department.

For the airman who sought thrills in the Spanish war found the wife who had saved his life from a firing squad as cold as an iceman's shoulder.

His return from three years in prison abroad was rewarded with one cold peck on the cheek by blonde, night-clubishly beautiful Edith Rogers Dahl, his actress wife—and that, just on orders of her publicity department.

All was not lost, however, to the penniless adventurer back from Spain. Radio offers and a 100,000 word story he penned in prison promised soon to put him back in "the chips."

MAY DROP CHARGES

Even the threat of bad check charges from far-off California waned hourly. Authorities announced they may not prosecute him after all.

But if Harold Dahl was disappointed over the greeting he received from his wife, he didn't show it. Perhaps he figured she had done enough by persuading Gen. Franco to spare his life.

At the same time, Dahl revealed that Franco never might have become interested, if it hadn't been for Edward J. "Eddie" Neil, Mashuen, Mass., newsman, who lost his life in the same war.

It was Neil who showed Franco the picture of the dazzling Mrs. Dahl and caused her aviator husband to be sentenced to a prison term on the day before he was to be lined up and shot.

Later, of course, Mrs. Dahl went abroad to meet Franco and did her dazzling in person.

Self-consciously, Dahl came down the gangplank from his European adventure to find his wife strolling slowly towards him with a battery of cameramen and a whole retinue of her publicity staff.

'BE CAREFUL OF MY LIPSTICK'

This was her greeting:

"Be careful of my lipstick, darling!"

She turned her cheek and he planted a kiss while the newsmen begged for ardor and the publicity department tore their hair.

They were still tearing their hair when Dahl went off with a friend and Mrs. Dahl said "so long" and was wisked away by a radio agent.

Under a barrage of questions, Dahl gave a laconic, straight-forward account of his Spanish venture. Refusing to be prodded into heroics, he said he had signed up for the adventure and the pay, $1500 per month and a bonus of $1000 for each enemy plane shot down.

Ends Own Life In Oxygen Tent

DENVER, March 18 (AP)—Taking advantage of a hospital nurse's brief absence, an invalid deprived himself of a few hours of life remaining to him by plunging a pen-knife into his chest while he lay under an oxygen tent.

The knife blade punctured and collapsed the right lung of Calvin H Campbell Sr., 47 year old former official of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, an autopsy report disclosed today. His physician said he would have died within a few hours in any event because of complications attendin pneumonia.

Campbell was a chronic sufferer from stomach ulcers, his physician disclosed.

Press Raps Britain On Scapa Flow Raid

a more dynamic war policy, the conservative Daily Mail declared:

"Events seem to be always one jump ahead of the British government. While the enemy acts (in reference to the Hitler-Mussolini meeting) the democracies hesitate.

"EASY-COME-EASY-GO" PLAN

"Today we still have the good old easy-come-easy-go system of muddling inefficiency. It may carry us through peace but it's not good enough for war.

"The government should face one fact. Their lack of boldness is losing them public confidence. The British people want to see Britain the master not the servant of events."

The mass Nazi raid in Saturday's twilight brought the war's first civilian casualties and the announcement that an unidentified British battleship had been hit.

One cottager was killed and seven other civilians—including two women—were wounded. Seven naval men were listed as casualties also, but the admiralty did not specify whether they were killed or wounded.

The air ministry's report of a counter raid on German warships in Helgoland Bight during daylight hours Saturday and the admission of naval authorities that the Orkney Islands' station, like all "our eastern and northern bases," is "always" vulnerable to attack, did not cushion newspaper criticism.

The fact that only one German bomber was shot down prompted questions about the effectiveness of the Royal Air Force. The press blamed the RAF for not downing more.

The more than 100 high explosive and incendiary bombs Nazi raiders showered on the islands off the north Scottish coast did only "minor damage" to the British man o' war, but the admiralty announced that the next of kin of the seven naval casualties had been notified.

FIRST RAID SINCE OCT. 17

The raid was the first on Scapa Flow since the battleship Iron Duke was hit and damaged by a German air raider on Oct. 17. Four days previously the battleship Royal Oak was sunk there by a German submarine. "Our best strategic base" was thereafter abandoned as a fleet station, according to Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty.

Soon after the enemy squadron roared in from the North Sea, heather on the hilly objective—Pomona Island—was blazing. The raiders appeared just after sunset at about 7:50 p. m. (1:50 p. m., EST) and were not driven off by a combined defense of planes and ship and shore batteries until 9:15 p. m. (3:15 a. m., EST, Sunday). Five cottages were hit and farm buildings and haystacks were fired.

While the British stated that few of the enemy dared to brave Scapa Flow defenses but "were content to kill and wound civilians in a small village (Bridge of Waith) five or six miles from the harbor," German announcements claimed three battleships and one cruiser were "severely damaged" and that two other naval vessels sustained "probable" damage.

BATTLESHIP REPULSE, SISTER TO RENOWN
Another German Plane Victim?

Nazi Fliers' Own Stories of Raid

BERLIN, March 18 (AP)—The 42,100-ton British battle cruiser Hood and the 32,000-ton battle cruisers Renown and Repulse were believed to have been anchored at Scapa Flow when a group of German bombers suddenly raided Britain's anchorage there, German fliers declared.

Describing how the first German air attack of the war on British land objectives was carried out, three young red-cheeked German fliers told the foreign press their raid "went off on schedule, much like a peacetime parade before a Nazi party congress."

Although they said the three biggest British warships were believed in the Orkney Island anchorage when they raided it, they could not be sure what ships they hit with their bombs because it was virtually impossible to read the names from the air.

The German command contented itself with a communique merely saying three battleships and one cruiser were "severely damaged" and "probable" damage inflicted on two other warships as well.

Major Fritz Doench, 36, air veteran and unit leader, wearing the iron cross, said the Germans had known for days that the British home fleet had been brought to Scapa Flow.

"Just before flying off, we talked our plan over once more and then departed. We flew a roundabout way because we were not foolish enough to go directly. We came toward the Orkneys from the east and still could see well. It was about twilight," said Maj. Doench.

WARN BRITAIN ON PEACE BID

LONDON, March 18 (INS)—Although still puzzled over the scope and nature of the Hitler-Mussolini conference at the Brenner Pass, the London press today warned the British government not to reject any peace offer out of hand.

Such an attitude would be dangerous, it was emphasized, enabling Hitler to tell the world that intransigeance of the Western Powers had wrecked peace hopes.

Editorials urged Prime Minister Chamberlain to restate the Allied peace terms boldly in a speech to the House of Commons tomorrow. His address already is being heralded as "one of the most important of the war."

Wild rumors continued to circulate regarding significance of the Tronner Pass meeting, with the majority of commentators seeing it as a peace move. British officialdom continued to claim that it was uninformed and not particularly interested in the conference, but Whitehall obviously was awaiting elucidation.

French Doom Peace "Without Security"

PARIS, March 18 (AP)—If the surprise meeting between Hitler and Mussolini is the first act of an Easter week peace offensive, the play is doomed to failure, according to the French view.

Government sources said today, in commenting on the Brennero conference, that the Allies could not accept an immediate compromise peace but would fight on until they had won victory and guarantees of security.

The government's position on "peace with security" has been stated repeatedly, and the restatement that the French government could not trust the Nazi regime was prompted by the belief that the Hitler-Mussolini talks presaged peace negotiations.

Because Sumner Welles, American undersecretary of state and European surveyor for President Roosevelt would not sail until Wednesday, French government sources professed to see a move for American support by the conferees.

For the moment, the government view was that American sympathies are with Britain and France. President Roosevelt's speech Saturday in which he opposed any peace of "oppression" or "fear" was taken here as support for the allied side.

SWISS FIRE ON INVADERS

LONDON, March 18 (AP)—Reuters, British news agency, reported from Berne, Switzerland, that Swiss anti-aircraft guns and warplanes went into action today when for even planes twice flew over Swiss territory.

Rome Hears Britain, France, Have Peace Plan

ROME, March 18 (INS)—Reports persisted today that in his conversation with Adolf Hitler, Premier Mussolini produced a new Anglo-French peace proposal brought to Rome by American Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles.

This proposal, it was reported, suggested a conference of Germany, Great Britain and France to effect a compromise on all matters affecting Poland, Czechoslovakia, the Balkans and the Near East.

In addition, the reports said, Britain would agree to return of Germany's war-lost colonies in exchange for "modification" of the Reich's friendly attitude toward Soviet Russia.

HEAVY NAZI ATTACK REPULSED BY FRENCH

PARIS, March 18 (AP)—German attacks with the largest number of men put into action since the war started were reported by military quarters today to have been turned back by French machine-gun and artillery fire.

German patrols operating Sunday in separated sectors west of the Vosges Mountains and east of the Moselle River sustained what military sources described as "cruel losses" in extended operations.

At least three separate engagements occurred during the day.

The first came at dawn Sunday when French artillery observers, moving forward to posts which are not manned during the night, found Germans installed in them.

The French attacked with automatic light-arms and were met by German counterfire.

The Germans finally withdrew, it was said.

In the second engagement the Germans sent about 300 men to meet a French patrol operating in the Vosgesa.

The French unit replied to enemy fire and repulsed waves of Germans seeking to capture advance positions, according to these advices.

Heavy bursts of machine-gunning were succeeded by fire from the artillery which blasted German troops and forced them to retreat in disorder.

Shell explosions ripped through the Germans causing a large number of dead and wounded, Military sources said Nazi losses were heavy. Concerning themselves, the French reported "two disappeared."

(Editor's note—The German high command in Berlin reported today that prisoners had been captured in a Western Front engagement near Zweibruecken and that an unspecified number of the enemy had been killed.

Russia Rushes New Forts on Finn Border

HELSINKI, March 18 (INS)—Fearing a general outbreak of war which might involve the U. S. S. R., the Soviet Union today was reported constructing a chain of defenses along the newly-demarcated Soviet-Finnish frontier.

It was announced that Dr. Juho Paasikivi, Finnish minister without portfolio, has left for Moscow in connection with the Russo-Finnish peace treaty.

Britain's Huge War Loan Oversubscribed

LONDON, March 18 (AP)—Britain's new £300,000,000 ($1,200,000,000) 3 per cent war loan has been oversubscribed, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon informed the House of Commons today.

More Ships or 'Britain Starves'

LONDON, March 18 (AP)—Assetting that Britain may starve to death unless her shipbuilding program is speeded up, Emanuel Shinwell, Laborite member of Parliament, asked the House of Commons today for a vote censuring the Shipping Ministry.

Shinwell took the floor to press his demand for a vote shortly after the government had disclosed to Comons that it is consulting with France and Turkey on the form of aid the western powers might give their eastern ally in event she became involved in war.

Shinwell scored the shipping ministry for delays which he said were due to lack of organization, and declared that complaints were rolling in as "ships are lost, lives are lost and hundreds of thousands of pounds frittered away."

The effective cargo-carrying tonnage of the British merchant marine is only about 10,000,000 tons at present, Shinwell said, and not "18,000,000 tons as Mr. Churchill (First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill) would have claimed."

Mme. Lupescu, King's Friend, Quits Rumania

LONDON, March 18 (INS)—Fearing for her safety, Mme. Magda Lupescu, titian-haired companion of King Carol, left Bucharest two days before the Rumanian monarch lifted the ban on the anti-Semitic Iron Guard organization, the London Daily Herald reported today.

The paper said it was believed she was en route to England and later would go to the United States.

Rival May Upset Gandhi

RAMGARH, India, March 18 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi's control of the All-India National Congress appeared threatened today by the arrival of Subhas Chandra Bose, former Congress president, who established a rival camp in a field adjacent to the one where the Gandhi followers are preparing to open a plenary session.

A crowd of 10,000 met Bose and escorted him to the site in a colorfully festooned bullock-drawn cart.

virtually Italy on the other hand to peace.

Without awaiting possible action by the American President, however, it was considered more than likely that German naval and air force activity against Britain would continue and German-Italian diplomacy would be most active in Soviet Russia and the Balkans.

"3-STAR SPECIAL"

On the very day that Hitler and Mussolini reached the far-reaching decisions, Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop's personal monthly organ, "Berlin-Rome-Tokyo," rolled off the presses with a highly significant article characterized by three stars instead of the author's name.

Such three-star articles are understood to have been approved in the highest quarters and to be tantamount to an utterance by the foreign minister himself.

The argument developed in the course of the long article is epitomized in the following conclusion which was drawn:

"We are acting unrestrictedly and irrepressibly with war and victory as the sole dominating thought. We are amused to see how some people believe that German and Italian statesmen, contrary to all their practices thereto, will permit the initiative to be wrested from them through cajolery, threats or blackmail, or to allow themselves to be provoked by noisy statesmen or an angry press on the other side.

"For the benefit of these strategists let it be said quite clearly and pointedly: the German-Italian alliance is a reality built not only upon power but just as much upon wisdom. It is a reality which can be active everywhere at any time without restriction."

An authorized spokesman soon after the Hitler-Mussolini meeting said it was held "to discuss all questions which concern both allied and authoritarian nations."

Welles, Taylor Talk With Pope

VATICAN CITY, March 18 (INS) Pope Pius XII today received American Under Secretary of State Sumner Wells in private audience in the Pontiff's private library at the Vatican.

Welles was presented to His Holiness by Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special "peace envoy" to the Holy See. Taylor was present throughout the meeting.

Welles then visited Cardinal Maglione, Papal Secretary of State.

Meanwhile, there were reports that the Pope will issue a new peace plea to the world before Easter.

Welles originally was scheduled to sail for the United States tomorrow aboard the Conte Di Savoia, but it was understood the ship's departure had been deferred to permit the American diplomat more time in Rome.

Fear Priest Dead On Mountain Peak

BUENOS AIRES, March 18 (AP)—A Catholic priest who wanted to say mass atop the Western Hemisphere's highest mountain was feared today to have died. Father Kastelic has been unreported for more than two weeks on his climb of 22,834-foot Mount Aconcagua on the Argentine-Chilean border.

Today's report of the discovery of a gale torn tent and disorderly remains of a camp within 464 feet of the summit led experienced Andes scalers to express the belief that he had been swept to his death. Some of his possessions were reported found.

Holland Jails Two For Aiding Nazis

ROTTERDAM, March 18 (AP)—Two men convicted of using a secret radio to transmit weather reports to Germany were given the maximum sentence of six years in prison today. The weather reports were intended for use by the Nazi air force. The men are P. C. Bakker, a Netherlands citizen, and H. Dreves, a German national.

DICTATORS PART BEST OF FRIENDS

in the vestibule of the private car.

They walked down the steps chatting cordially, and as Italian troops presented arms Hitler boarded his own train for Innsbruck after a final handshake.

Hitler stood at the window and saluted Mussolini as an Italian band played "Deutschland uber Allies."

Twenty minutes after his departure, Il Duce boarded his train and started back to Rome.

TALK ABOUT RUSSIA?

Throughout the conference, which diplomatic sources in Rome were convinced revolved about relations between Italy and Soviet Russia, snow fell without a break. All train traffic through the gateway between Germany and Italy had halted while the meeting was in progress.

It was a meeting reminiscent of those between European crowned heads in the days before the World War.

A few moments after Hitler arrived aboard a special train at Brennero at the gateway between Germany and Italy, he and Il Duce had entered the latter's private car, secreting themselves behind closed doors and shaded windows for a private, personal conference fraught with limitless possibilities as regards a sudden peace or itensified war.

At almost the same time, United States Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles was in private audience at the Vatican with Pope Pius XII, carrying on a conversation inevitably linked in the public mind at least with the other conference underway beneath the Brenner's Alpine snows.

Welles then visited Cardinal Maglione, Papal Secretary of State.

Meanwhile, there were reports that the Pope will issue a new peace plea to the world before Easter.

Mussolini's linguistic abilities, which include a good working knowledge of German, enabled the two dictators to meet without the handicap of an interpreter, out of sight and hearing not only of newspaper reporters but of their own closest assistants.

The latter, headed on the German side by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and on the Italian side by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, waited in another car while Hitler and Mussolini talked in private, renewing a personal acquaintance last enjoyed at Munich in 1938, when Czechoslovakia was cut to opieces with the sanction of Great Britain and France.

When the private conversation was concluded, Ciano and Von Ribbentrop were called in for further consultation, which according to the Rome radio was carried on in a cordial atmosphere for more than two hours.

Hitler's car was the fifth in an eight-car train which came to Italy loaded with high Nazi dignitaries. Together with generals and foreign office experts was Count Bernardo Attolico, the Italian ambassador to Berlin, whose counterpart aboard Mussolini's special was Hans Georg von Mackensen, Germany's envoy to the Eternal City.

The initial meeting took place near the tiny Italian town of Bressanone in the shadow of the Alps, some 20 miles north of Bolzano.

Pope Interested In Duce Parley

ROME, March 18 (INS)—Pope Pius today manifested keen interest in the mysterious conference between Premier Mussolini and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler at the Brenner Pass.

Clear Connolly On 16 'Job' Counts

Atty. Edward M. Sullivan for the government.

The 13 counts of requesting and accepting presents and rewards on which Connolly was cleared included those which charged the former clerk with receiving $200 from Marguerite W. Kennedy, $200 from Ann Pugh, $200 from Gertrude M. Cotter, $300 from John E. Noonan, $200 from Catherine Gibbons, $200 from Mary Brophy.

Also with receiving $300 from Edward Kelley, $300 from Martha Friel, $250 from Mary Cunningham, $250 from Mary Brogie, a second $200 from Mary Brophy, $250 from Louise V. Crowley, and $250 from Thomas Brophy.

The three counts of requesting and accepting gratuities while a county officer on which Connolly won acquittal were those charging him with receiving $250 from Patrolman Edward J. Kegan, $200 from Mary Brophy, and $250 from J. Crowley, brother of Louise Crowley.

Conway was cleared of soliciting bribes from Louise Crowley and Mary Brophy.

The remaining eight counts against Connolly for allegedly requesting and accepting presents and rewards include those charging that he took $950 in loans from Edward Toomey, John P. Connolly, Mary Gaquin and Claire Crowley, all employes of his office, and that he received campaign contributions from three men employes.

The jury was excused from the courtroom as the session opened. In the jury's absence Judge Leary heard arguments on defense motions for directed verdicts.

In absence of Asst. Dist Atty. Frederick T. Doyle, the government prosecutor, who was still confined to his West Roxbury home by illness, the State was represented by Dist. Atty. William J. Foley, and Asst. Dist. Attys. Edward M. Sullivan and George McGonigle.

Japs Claim Capture Of City of Lingshan

HONGKONG, March 18 (AP)—Japanese today reported the capture of the walled city of Lingshan, 70 miles southeast of Nanning, which they described as the "most important Chinese stronghold" east of the Nanning-Yamchow railroad in Kwangsi Province, Southern China.

Earlier the Japanese had reported that 20,000 Chinese troops in the area east of the Nanning-Yamchow railway were "doomed to annihilation."

LAST HOPE GONE FOR 69 IN MINE

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., March 17 (AP)—All of 73 victims of the Willow Grove mine explosion were given up for dead today, and the state prepared to pay death claims of nearly $400,000.

Hope for 69 entombed coal miners faded 48 hours after the explosion. Four others were known dead. Officials reported in another 24 hours they could break through the poisonous gases and rock barriers which blanketed the trapped men.

More than 100 other miners, most of them gassed or injured, were rescued.

Bodies of John Marks, motorman, and Ross McFadden were removed from the mine before dawn. John Richards, superintendent, and Howard Sanders, tippie boss, died of fumes in rescue efforts.

State-federal investigations will be launched as soon as debris is cleared away and the bodies removed.

2 Charge Husbands Have Other 'Wives'

SALEM, March 18—Two North Shore wives sought annulment of their marriages in Probate Court today, each with a claim that their husbands had other wives.

Mrs. Bernadine Thompson of Van Buren ter., Lynn, told Judge John V. Phelan that through her sister she learned her husband, Waldo Thompson, had a wife No. 1.

Mrs. Thompson testified she questioned her husband about this other wife and that he flatly denied such a union.

When she threatened to confront him with wife No. 1, however, he admitted his previous marriage, she added.

The first marriage took place in 1930 and the second three years later, the court was told.

Mrs. Rose S. De Bellis of Rantoul st., Beverly, testified that a short time after her marriage in September, 1938, her attorney told her that her husband, Vito De Bellis, also of Beverly, had no legal right to marry her because a divorce which he obtained from his first wife had not become final.

The couple were living in Gore st., Cambridge, at the time.

Mrs. De Bellis testified that upon advice of her attorney she left her husband. Both cases were taken under advisement by Judge Phelan.

Community Bus Proposal Studied

Critical of the action of Winthrop selectmen in granting the Rapid Transit Co. a permanent bus permit, Fred I. Crocker, chairman of the Winthrop town transportation committee, announced today he was studying a new plan of "community owned vehicles."

Crocker estimated a 10-cent fare would be charged to Boston and that all commuters would "chip in" to buy the buses.

With community owned buses, he pointed out, it would not be necessary to obtain any state or municipal permits.

9,000,000 Jobless, F. D. Advisers Say

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt's economic advisers, it was learned today, have sent him a memorandum indicating that the nation started 1940 with from 9,000,000 to 12,000,000 unemployed.

The memorandum is a compilation of differing estimates from prominent labor statistics sources. It draws no original conclusions.

The President was told that the best unemployment figures available until the census takers check up in April are as follows:

	Estimated 1939 average January, 1940	Estimated for January, 1940
National Industrial Conference Board	$ 100 000	$ 300,000
American Federation of Labor	10,100 000	10,200 000
Congress of Industrial Org.	10,700 000	12 000 000
A federal economist	$ 800 000	11 500 000

The economist one whose figures are used regularly by a half-dozen federal agencies, said that the higher figures for January were due partly to the business decline in that month but largely to seasonal factors which always increase unemployment in that month.

This statistician figures that an average of 2,000,000 was unemployed in 1929, with the figure rocketing to 14 000,000 in March, 1933, declining to 6,250,000 in September, 1937, rising again to 10,300,000 in February, 1938, and touching temporary bottom again at 8,80,000 last October.

If the usual seasonal factors operate this year—a circumstance of which he is not sure because of the recent business decline—this economist calculates that unemployment should be down to about 9,000,000 in April.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics, meanwhile, forecast a spring reversal of the downturn in business activity but did not find any signs indicating a rapid improvement thereafter.

Employment and business conditions are being given special study in administration and congressional circles at this time because Congress soon will have to appropriate relief funds for the next fiscal year.

Senator Murray (D.) of Montana wants President Roosevelt to recommend more than the approximate $1,000,000,000 which was recommended for the WPA in the budget estimates. His proposal was winning support from several colleagues.

Planes, Ships Hunt 7 at Sea

the Frank Firicano family of Richmond st., North End.

Skipper of the Providenza is Faul Firicano, 24. His father, Frank Firicano, 56, and three brothers, Joseph, 26, Leo, 22, and Anthony, 19, all of the same address, are in the crew.

With the Firicanos on the missing dragger are Batista Manfu, 33, Hanover st., and Leonard Aiello, 32, North st., both of the North End.

Today, the two New York seaplanes scanned large expanses of ocean south of Cape Cod, as far east as Georges Banks, while two other planes left the Salem Coast Guard base at daybreak.

PATROL BOATS IN SEARCH

In one of the Salem seaplanes was Anthony Marino, a former crew member of the Providenza, who was asked to make the flight in order to help identify the missing boat in case she was sighted.

Meanwhile, the patrol boats Algonquin and Travis sped from their ports in Portland and Rockland, Me., to join the Faunce and Argo.

The latter two patrol boats have been on constant patrol since the search began early Saturday.

Hundreds of miles of ocean, from the tip of Maine to Block Island, have been covered already and now the searchers are far at sea, ranging in the more remote fishing grounds for the dragger.

ACTOR IS CANDIDATE

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 18 (INS)—James Gleason, film actor, today was in the political arena as a candidate for a place on the new city council. Election of the Gleason ticket might place the actor in a position to be chosen mayor by his fellow council members.

URGES TEA PARTY IN TAX FIGHT

Business men, especially the little fellows, should stage another Boston tea party according to Fred Perkins of West York, Pa., a business man who has consistently defied the government since the time of the Blue Eagle.

A visitor to Boston, Perkins declared his present fight is against the Social Security Act, which he beheves to be unfair.

It was Perkins who defied the New Deal's NRA so successfully that it finally was outlawed. Now he has refused to pay social security since 1937.

He believes that he has broken about even with the government thus far in the matter of honors.

"The government seized the trucks I use in my battery business and sold them off to get Social Security payments," he declared. "They also attached a $40 bank account. But I haven't paid a dime since 1937 and I don't intend to."

Perkins is a native of West Townsend and has been one of the most telling foes of the New Deal. He attended Cushing Academy, Andover and Cornell before engaging in business in Pennsylvania.

In declaring that business men should stage another "tea party," Perkins said:

"The reason I say that is that the situation of small business men is precisely like that of the colonists who paid the tea tax. It wasn't the size of the tax that was levied, but it was the principle of the thing. And these small taxes today aren't too burdensome for big business, but they eat the heart out of a small business, and I firmly believe the social security act to be unfair and unconstitutional. And I'm going to fight it."

PRESIDENT WED 35 YEARS

WASHINGTON, March 18 AP)—Yesterday was the 35th anniversary of President and Mrs. Roosevelt's marriage. Mrs. Roosevelt returned from a mid-western lecture to be with Mr. Roosevelt, but White House officials said no especial observance of the day was arranged.

If Your Ankles Swell You Can't Feel Well

Do your ankles swell or are you tired and worn out a lot of the time with dark circles under your eyes? If so, the cause may be functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney trouble. The Kidneys work night and day cleaning and filtering excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. Because they never get a real rest it's easy to see that as you grow older the Kidneys may get tired functionally, and slow down. Then excess acids and wastes may accumulate and poison your system. So if your ankles swell or you have to get up nights or suffer burning, scanty or frequent passages, backaches or nervousness, due to non-organic or non systemic Kidney or Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex, because it has been so successful in so high a percentage of such cases. Cystex is sold under a positive guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. Cystex now costs only 35c at druggists and the guarantee protects you.

'Pinocchio' New Disney Fantasy

Just who is this fellow, "Pinocchio" in the title role of Walt Disney's second feature-length Technicolor production which comes to Keith-Memorial screen Thursday?

He is a little wooden puppet given a chance to become alive. With his bright childish smile, his little costume he wears—he looks like any other child in the village. He even acts like a little boy, but just isn't sure what is right and what is wrong.

Pinocchio was given his chance to become alive by Geppetto, who carved him, and wanted so badly to have a real son that the Blue Fairy gave the gift of life to Pinocchio so Geppetto might have his wish.

Pinocchio soon finds temptations and dangers cross his path in this RKO Radio release. A villainous Coachman wants to change him into a donkey. At another time he plunges into the sea to find Geppetto who has been swallowed by Monstro, the whale.

Father, Pinocchio, skipping off on his first day at school, is accosted by a villainous fox, whose name is J. Worthington "Honest John" Foulfellow and his wordless, undrained accomplice, "Giddy," a cat. They sell him to Stromboli, an unscrupulous traveling puppeteer who imprisons Pinocchio in a bird-cage.

Although the villains outnumber kindly old Geppeto, little Pinocchio and the extremely minute Jiminy Cricket (who is—we neglected to tell you—the small marionette's conscience), these three emerge triumphant at the end of the picture, partly because right is on their side and partly because Walt Disney's characters can overcome tremendous odds in extremely logical fashion.

"Pinocchio" was written during the latter part of the last century by Carlo Lorenzini, under the pen name of C. Collodi. It has been translated into 200 languages and dialects.

On the same bill will be Joe Penner in "Millionaire Playboy," also an RKO production. Featured are Linda Hayes, Russ Brown and Fritz Feld.

POOR PINOCCHIO doesn't know that the man he's talking to is as blackhearted a villain as ever did a desperate deed. He's Stromboli, unscrupulous marionette master, who certainly means no good for Our Hero in this scene from Walt Disney's second full-length Multiplane Technicolor production, "Pinocchio," an RKO Radio release due on Keith-Memorial screen Thursday.

Boston Movie Clock will be found on Page 16.

20 HOMES TO FI[illegible] LA FHA

Three Houses Designed fo[illegible] $2800 to $4000

Elaborate FHA Home Is Available Reasonably

Even the more elaborate of the Federal Housing Administration's new-type homes for moderate-income buyers are available for as little as $22 a month, plus local taxes and fire insurance, according to figures furnished the Boston Evening American today by FHA headquarters here.

Ground is to be broken this week on an 80-dwelling low-cost home project within the city limits of Boston. The new houses will be offered for sale to any responsible citizen or family, with preference accorded buyers of moderate means.

The three homes illustrated on this page of the Boston Evening American today are of types already constructed in areas outside New England.

FHA engineers have slightly modified plans for these same structures toward the end of adapting them to the New England climate.

The roomy dwelling photographed at Charlotte, N. C., can be built in Boston for a total cost of $4000, federal experts estimate.

If a $500 down payment were made on this, the $3500 mortgage covering the balance of the cost could be financed over a 25-year period for $20.33 a month, according to the FHA plan.

Of this sum, $19.46 would be interest and amortization of principal, $1.41 mortgage insurance.

Local taxes and fire insurance would be extra, amounting to somewhere between $10 and $15 a month, depending on the community.

Financed over a 20-year period, the same house could be bought for $500 down and $23.55 a month, plus taxes and fire insurance, FHA directors say.

The two other houses illustrated on this page today, one of them located at Annapolis, Md., the other at Houston, Tex., could be built in New England for $2800 and $3850, respectively, according to federal architects.

The $2800 home could be bought for $300 down and a $2500 mortgage, financed at $14.91 a month over 25 years or $16.52 a month over 20 years, exclusive of fire insurance and taxes.

The $3850 home, on the basis of a $450 down payment and a $3400 mortgage, could be financed for $20.33 a month over 25 years, $22.87 over a 20-year period.

Further details can be obtained from Boston FHA headquarters in the Park Square building.

$4000 Valuation—For the family able to pay a little more than the minimum, the Federal Housing Administration offers the above six room house, at Charlotte, N. C., with two bedrooms, bath, living-room and porch. According to John F. Malley, state director of the FHA here, the house has a $4000 valuation, $3500 mortgage, and will be paid for in 25 years at $20.33 a month, exclusive of taxes and insurance.

$2800—Built at Annapolis, Md., this home calls for minimum payments . . . $280 down, rest in 15, 20 or 25 years. The floor plan is at right . . .

$3850—Interested in this home is Joseph M. Stokes, chief underwriter for FHA in this district . . . who points out the rambling structure has a $3850 valuation, with mortgage of $3400, 25 year payments of $20.33 a month . . . at Houston, Tex., where it was erected.

Speed Ray—Kicking up a bit of spray for this Speed Ray camera shot are swimmers Eleanor Kyle, Patricia Powers, Betty Rhoads and Janette Hammer of Posse College . . . but they'll have to kick faster than 1-100,000 second for the camera to miss.

Old Unfaithful—Brooklyn youngsters don't have to go to Yellowstone Park to view a geyser . . . not with a broken water main doing duty in an unscheduled show . . . like this.

Queen?—Out for title of "Miss Candid Camera" at Press Photographers' Ball, March 27, at the Copley-Plaza is Jeanette Del Mar of Boston . . . who wears the victor's fur jacket, donated by I. J. Fox.

THE disturbing possibility of a Boston tax rate well above the $41 mark prompts pertinent comments, none more pertinent than Mr. Daniel Bloomfield's timely warning.

The well-informed secretary of the Massachusetts Council of Retail Merchants, urges Mayor Tobin to make more realistic moves in the direction of economy, challenges City Councilors to represent their constituents and says:

MAYOR TOBIN
He Still Has Time

"If the budget goes through, we will have not only the highest tax rate in the history of Boston, but also the highest rate of any large metropolitan center of comparable size in the United States."

Such a situation is hardly apt to promote recovery, hasten re-employment or encourage industrial expansion.

Very obviously it can operate to the disadvantage of everyone—property owner, rent payer, business man and consumer.

For cities, lacking power to coin money, must collect it from somebody, and that somebody is usually the wage earner.

The gouging may seem to exempt the little man. But it never does. Eventually it falls upon him, either in the form of increased prices or, more viciously, in guise of an announcement that his job has been terminated or his salary reduced.

IT IS QUITE PROBABLE that Mayor Tobin had this in mind two years ago, when in his Inaugural address, he said:

"I believe it was their (the voters') hope that I would face the situation frankly and openly; that I would conduct the city's affairs economically; that I would adopt and introduce improvements in administration that might result in decreased expense, and that I would use my best efforts to keep the tax rate of our city within reasonable limits."

DANIEL BLOOMFIELD
Points Out Danger

Opinions may differ regarding what constitutes a tax rate "within reasonable limits."

But it becomes increasingly clear that many persons who are familiar with Boston's financial condition do not place the impending $41 levy in that category.

One of these, Mr. H. C. Loeffler, secretary of the Municipal Research Bureau, states:

"Operating costs in Boston's city government have been consistently among the highest, when compared with those in other cities on a per capita basis, and no convincing reason therefor has been advanced.

"Economies have been repeatedly urged, and these could not by any stretch of the imagination be held inconsistent with the public interest.

MISS McSWEENEY
Wants Statement

"There will be great difficulty in convincing Boston taxpayers that expenses have reached an irreducible minimum as long as nothing is done about the city's excessive departments, boards and salaried officials."

Another is Miss Margaret McSweeney, who in behalf of the League of Women Voters, has asked the Mayor to make public his stand both on the proposed consolidation of municipal departments and on the suggestion that the city's enormous expenditures for temporary employment be drastically slashed.

A third critic is Mr. Fred A. Dakin, chairman of the Boston Chamber of Commerce Committee on Municipal Finance, who concedes that the present city Administration has made some progress but concludes that "the expectations of 1938 have not been realized yet."

IT IS NOT TOO LATE for Mayor Tobin and the members of the City Council to pare down the tax rate.

It is not too late for these officials, in whose hands the fate of Boston rests, to act constructively.

They have all the authority, all the information, all the public support they will ever require.

The one big, important question is:

HAVE THEY THE COURAGE?

His Send-off

A baby face at the window as Daddy goes to work . . . a pair of loving eyes in which the starlight seems to lurk . . . a loving kiss to Daddy blown by Sonny's dimpled hand . . . a tribute which the mightiest king could all in vain command.

Thus blithely speeded on his way, as if a modern knight . . . Dad's heart renews its courage, for the day has started right . . . Throughout the routing of the day, though things may go amiss . . . there will linger in his memory a baby's goodby kiss.

ANNUALLY $322,200,000 is spent at drug-store fountain lunches and 70 per cent of this is spent on sandwiches. I like corn-beef sandwiches on rye bread with no lettuce, dressing, olives or potato chips . . . Mioland will win the Kentucky Derby . . . Goering seems to be the real boss of Germany. Could it be the original Hitler is no longer alive? . . . Good heavyweight boxing championship contenders and good Presidential candidates are scarcer than ever.

IN AUSTRALIA they vote on Prohibition every eight years. Liquor dealers and distillers must lead a nervous life down under . . . In one twenty-year period of United States history 233,563 new laws were passed . . . If a fellow became worried about ignorance of the law being no excuse I wonder how many laws he would have to study to know all the laws of the city and State he lived in and those of the United States.

IT IS EVIDENT women intensely desire to have different hats and different gowns than other women. So it is logical to believe women desire different types of houses than other women. Yet in many large cities and suburbs we see many rows of houses exactly alike. If a man built a row of houses each one different and all designed by a woman architect his sales might be sensational . . . Governor Phillips of Oklahoma balanced the State's budget. Let us have at once an article by the Governor titled "How I Balanced the Budget." A copy of same to be sent to every Governor in the Union.

"HE HAS ACHIEVED success, who has lived well, laughed often and loved much," said A. J. Stanley. How are you doing, mister? . . . Inasmuch as it seems the country is to be mutuelized, I think we should have a one-dollar mutuel ticket at all tracks and a $3 across-the-board ticket. How about us sport fans organizing? We could call ourselves the Mice or Men Society . . . Say, young fellow, don't go too far in matter of "That Foolish Vanity Called Modesty." Speak yourself up. Remember:

If you tooteth not your own bassoon
The same shall not be tooted.

MOST OF THE TIME Irene Dunne's husband, a physician, lives in New York while she lives in Hollywood. Is absence good for those who love each other? "Absences," said Robert Louis Stevenson, "are a good influence on love and keep it bright and delicate." -:- -:- MY DAY

HAMILTON, O., March 18—Such a pleasant surprise as greeted me in Chicago! I had barely walked into the hotel when the telephone rang, and it was our son, Jimmy, to tell me that he was in Chicago on business. He dined with us and breakfasted with us in the morning, and I hope to see him again in New York City this week.

Unexpected pleasures are always particularly nice and, because I thought he had gone back to California some time ago, this was a real joy.

I didn't waste much time after my arrival in Chicago. First of all, I went to listen to a broadcast which the Chicago Tribune Radio Station dedicated to civil liberties and to me. The Chicago WPA writers project wrote the script, and it was certainly both interestingly and dramatically done. Then I was presented with a portrait of myself, painted by Mrs. Margaret Johannsen, who began her painting at the age of fifty.

I am afraid that I was a sad disappointment to her, for I had to tell her that I had no desire for portraits of myself and that I had refused over and over again to sit for one. I hope that she will be able to find someone else to whom she can give this particular work of art.

FRANCES WILLIAMS
Calls on First Lady

THERE was a short reception for the members of the committee of the Chicago Civil Liberties Union, and then Mr. Thomasen of the Chicago Daily Times drove me out to the small hospital on the lake where children with heart ailments are cared for. They have capacity for one hundred children.

The doctor in charge, who is one of Chicago's leading pediatricians, is wrapped heart and soul in the work for these youngsters. If they are given proper care they almost always get well. If not, they die. The average gain in weight for these little patients is a pound a week, and I think this is due to the fact that the management is extraordinarily good.

The food is not only appetizing, but very carefully chosen. Each child gets a quart of milk a day and this is done in spite of a food cost which compares well with many institutions where the diet is not accomplishing such desirable results.

CHILDREN'S institutions are always appealing. As I looked at these youngsters, I felt grateful that so many people in Chicago had been moved to give them a chance to live useful and happy lives. Somewhat sadly the doctor said to me:

"We can take a hundred, and we are the only institution caring for this type of case. There are approximately 10,000 children in Chicago needing this care."

Back at the hotel I had a visit from some acquaintances. Then Miss Frances Williams, executive secretary of the American Youth Congress, who is at present on a trip through the Middle West, came to see us.

Broadway Medley

ELEANOR STILL ANGRY AT MANVILLE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 18—Eleanor Troy, the girl for whom Tommy Manville recently chartered a plane—to bring her from Hollywood so that he could marry her—attended the premiere of "A Passenger To Bali." George Jessel was her escort . . . Manville sat two seats away from them . . . Between acts, Miss Troy announced: "I won't talk to Tommy, I'm angry at him, because of something terrible he did" . . . "Yes, it was terrible," Jessel explained. "He gave her money—but it was all in those old, long thousand dollar bills."

TWO SCREEN-WRITERS, Jacques Thery and Billy Wilder, had an idea for a Garbo picture, and told it to Lubitsch. Lubitsch expanded upon it, told it to Louis B. Mayer—and then returned to tell the writers that Mayer had liked it . . . Their agent therefore went to the MGM story department, and negotiated the deal . . . Thery and Wilder didn't know what story Lubitsch had told Mayer—and by this time it had been told and re-told, until finally the writers met the last person who had heard it—and from him learned what the story was . . . their story, but now completely changed . . . They wrote the scenario, based upon this last version. But the producer complained that this was not the story Mayer had told him. Even Lubitsch couldn't remember it. And so that story, "Hi Darling," now is on MGM's shelf.

BETTY FIELD

MOST EXCITING events have been happening to Tommy Gee, a young man of Manhatt . . . Two years ago Gee invited Eleanor Roosevelt to cocktails. She wrote to him and countered by asking him up to Hyde Park. He appeared there, one Sunday afternoon, and cruised with the President, down the Hudson . . . Gee's newest devotion, whom he never had met, is Betty Field, now in "Two on an Island," who will become a film star because of her performance in "Of Mice & Men" and "Seventeen" . . . a magazine prepared to glamourize Betty, by having a photographer record her day's activities—showing her dining with a handsome young man . . . Miss Field didn't want to burden any of her friends with such an assignment, and so she asked her agent to supply the escort. The agent produced Tommy Gee.

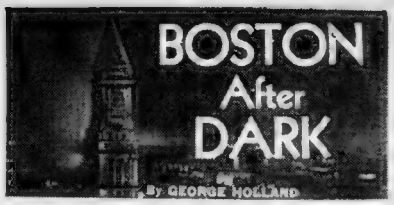
MAURICE DUKE went to the NBC Building where Yvette, a singer he is managing, was to broadcast . . . He wears steel braces on his legs, and walks with the aid of a cane in each hand . . . At the NBC Building, he started to walk down the corridor—when suddenly he was unable to move . . . "Come on, come on," his companion urged—but Duke couldn't because the steel brace was being drawn slowly to the room on the 4th floor—where the largest magnet in the world was being exhibited.



MONDAY MUSINGS: In the twilight of a day of glory for dear old Siwash, with the huge stadium now emptied of the mighty choir whose sole refrain this epoch-making day had been "McGoon, rah, McGoon rah-rah, McGoon, McGoon, McGoon" two earnest young men conferred in the corner of a dressing room, alone at last save for their memories and their plans . . . One was the tousled-haired young hero himself, the great, the one McGoon.

THE OTHER was waspish, able Joseph Tosh, Pythias to McGoon's Damon . . . Finally, a decision reached, McGoon rose wearily from the planking where, for three years now, his frame had rested as trainers had plied his muscles between the halves, and after the game . . . Glorious Saturdays these, of which today was the last, had been . . . Afternoons from which the McGoon rating as an All-America ball-carrier had been contributed, and with it the leap in stature to a place among the football greats . . . McGoon got up . . . Joe Tosh slipped an arm around his pal's neck reaching up to do it.

"OKAY, JOE, IF YOU SAY SO," remarked the aching lion of the campus . . . "Release" the news tonight" . . . McGoon, greatest of the Siwash great, had pronounced the words his faithful friend and roommate, the man the student-body called "The Brain" had waited two long years to hear . . . "The Siwash Daily Echo learns, (from an authoritative source) that Mike McGoon will be a candidate for Congress from this district a year hence . . . He will take a post-graduate course in economics and business administration . . . From Campus to Congress . . . Let McGoon continue to serve this district, will be the campaign slogan . . . Mr. Tosh will be the campaign-manager" . . . Silly? . . . Not at all . . . As a matter of plain fact, if Burt Standish were in tune with the times today, and if Burt had a couple of 1940 Merriwells under his writing wing, or flipper, he would run one or both of the boys for office . . . It's a trend . . . Athletics to politics . . . There are two cases at hand, and neither is a parallel, in the slightest respect, to the mythical McGoon's mythical decision to "run for Congress" . . . But both cases are those of prominent local athletes, both intent on a political career.

CONSIDER THE CASE of Ed McGrath, former captain of baseball at Harvard . . . Ed is a school committeeman in Brookline, and in the election two weeks ago, he polled a very big vote against harsh competition in the town election . . . We hear now that "pressure is being put on Eddie McGrath to seek a high state office" . . . Our listening-post is a gentleman in Republican high councils who knows generally what he is talking about.

CASE NO. 2 is that of John Gerard Sullivan, St. Anselm's '37 . . . Had it not been for a kid named McLean, who had ball-bearing hips and could run an end like an Eddie Casey, John Gerard Sullivan would have been the "McGoon" of St. Anselm's . . . Without copping quite as much newspaper notice as Mr. McLean, Mr. Sullivan did alright in that department himself . . . He

ANNABELLA PLANS FILM COMEBACK

By Louella O. Parsons

Annabella

HOLLYWOOD, March 18—Really good news is that Sol Siegel has sent Annabella the script of "Doctors Don't Tell" and Ty Power's pretty bride is thinking of it seriously for her movie comeback. Annabella is a clever actress and really too talented to give up her career and remain in her husband's background. "Doctors Don't Tell" has a "Grapes of Wrath" background and John Wayne makes his first departure from straight Western roles in this. With this cast lined up Republic can go to town on the picture with the strings off the money bags. Bernard Vorhaus will direct.

MARTHA RAYE

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Don't be surprised if Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston flash an announcement soon—tomorrow night they entertain their respective parents at a small dinner party: Judith Barrett and Lin (Ligaroti) Howard are really a romantic item. They leave for Yosemite for two weeks of skiing, chaperoned by Andrea Leeds and Bob Howard; Greta Nissen's heart-beat, Edward Lavin, is here visiting her and between us they may soon be pricing wedding rings; Astrid Allwyn and Kenneth Hance of Coronado are an item. She was formerly wed to Robert Kent; Martha Raye and David Rose are apparently still as happy as can be. She arrived home today and he entertained a big party of her friends in her home as a surprise. She leaves soon for the Rogers and Hart show in New York; the Fred MacMurrays leave April first for a motor trip through the South; the Charles Boyers and Mary Pickford, guests at Arrowhead Springs over the week-end—also the David Selznicks and Jock Whitney.

IF "WE DARE NOT LOVE" is half as good on the screen as in the telling, Sam Bischoff's first picture for Columbia will be a knockout. A story of Vienna before Hitler came into power, it is highly dramatic with Melvin Douglas playing the part of an influential government man in the Schuschnigg regime and Jean Arthur playing an American with powerful Nazi friends and relatives. The story is by James Edward Grant and follows "Arizona" for Jean. Certainly this is a contrast to "Too Many Husbands" the last picture in which Melvyn and Jean appeared together.

THEY ARE CERTAINLY doing big things at RKO. The latest interesting announcement, from Harry Edington, is the teaming of Charles Laughton and Carole Lombard in "They Knew What They Wanted." Written by Sidney Howard nearly 20 years ago, it was produced by the Theater Guild.

Highly censorable, I have no doubt Garson Kanin, the director, and Erich Pommer, the producer, will find a way to appease the Hays office.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

THE TWO MEN sat grimly facing each other across the table, which, with the two chairs and the lantern overhead, comprised the only furnishings in the small cabin. On that table was something which held grave peril for either one or the other of the men.

The wind howled dismally outside. Through the chinks in the walls it seeped into the cabin, creating cross-drafts that made the lantern bob and dip fitfully, causing the shadows of the pair, projected upon the walls, to dance weirdly to the eerie accompaniment of the creaking lantern, like phantoms performing a ghostly ritual.

But the men remained oblivious of the phantasmagoria at their backs, maintaining their stoically watchful attitude.

THE LARGER of the men was Big Ed, a veritable giant. His powerful hands lay in readiness upon the table. His lips were tightly closed as if in expectation. Though he was conscious of his advantage for success, his eyes held a faint glimmer of distrust. He recalled previous instances when the thin, wiry man opposite him had wriggled from his grasp.

The blazing, green eyes of Grizzly Bill poured enough malevolence into the other's steel grey orbs to scald his very soul, but Big Ed met them unflinchingly—but wait! Grizzly's hot gaze had dropped to the table! Big Ed's gigantic frame quivered! He saw Grizzly Bill's gnarled hands creeping forward!

"DON'T MOVE, you devil," cried Big Ed, "my men have you completely surrounded—one move, and you're a goner!"

Suddenly Grizzly Bill's hands darted forward—Big Ed shrieked—and collapsed!

With a horrible chuckle Grizzly Bill rose and bent over the senseless body. His cruel lips curled back as he leered into the other's livid face and cackled: "Still think ya kin beat Old Bill at checkers? Will ya look at the big sissy—fainted away like a spinster."

Write a story as thrilling as this and sent it NOW to Two-Minute Story Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. Five dollars will be paid for the week's best story.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WHY DOES the average wife believe that her husband owes her a perpetual debt because she married him, and feel that everything she does for said husband is a favor which he can never sufficiently repay?

You haven't conferred any more of a favor on the big boy by marrying him, sister, than he has conferred on you.

And he sacrificed as much for the deal as you did. It's a serious thing for a girl to put her life in a man's keeping, but it's just as serious for a man to put his life in a girl's keeping; and girlish dreams are not a particle more precious than boyish illusions. A boy can think as much romantic nonsense in a second as a girl can in a year and it hurts him just as hard to be jarred out of it.

TRADITION to the contrary, it's the groom who is usually all in a twitter, not the bride.

"But I sacrificed my freedom for my husband!" you cry.

Well, how about HIS freedom? You gummed up his liberty quite as much as he gummed up yours; and, in addition to giving up liberty, he acquired the upkeep of another healthy human—plus possible additions.

"See how hard I worked for him!"

See how hard he worked for you! And why, at any rate, should you regard your work as such an amazing performance? Wouldn't you have to work, even if you hadn't married him? And wouldn't you have had to endure the normal amount of snubs, indifference, bad temper and backache incident to any job?

Then, why consider yourself an uncrowned martyr because you've elected to earn your living by keeping house.

Why should a girl, who could never quality for more than a 20-dollar job when she was single, expect million dollar service after she's married—and cry about it, even when she gets that?

"But I gave him the best years of my youth?"

You did nothing of the sort, sister. Your youth passed. You didn't give it to him—it just vamoosed, as all youth vamooses. Growing old is nobody's fault. Why put him in the dog house because time passes?

Hatch Bill Passage Is Predicted Today

WASHINGTON, March 13 (INS)—Passage of the Hatch "Clean Politics" Bill, slated for 3 p. m. today in the Senate, will dispose of one controversial issue only to supplant it with two others.

Supporters of the Hatch bill—a Democratic-Republican coalition—proved strong enough to defeat all efforts to install crippling amendments, and were confident of passage. It's fate in the House is something else, with Democratic leaders there claiming a safe majority against it, if it ever reaches the floor. It may be buried in committee and never reach a vote.

The Senate, meanwhile, will take up the Agricultural Department appropriation bill and act to extend the reciprocal trade treaty law for three years, and both promise to evoke plenty of controversy.

Strong opposition from the economy bloc is expected to the Agricultural Department supply bill, into which the Senate appropriations committee wrote $212,000,000 for parity payments to farmers, after the House had refused parity payments. Totaling more than $1,000,000,000 in all, the bill is expected to be debated at length, but Democratic leaders predicted its passage before the week end.

The trade treaty program, however, is in for bitter debate. Passed by the House, the measure was approved by the Senate foreign relations committee without change, over the protest of the committee chairman, the veteran Senator Pittman (D.) of Nevada.

Pittman is demanding at least an amendment to require Senate ratification of trade agreements, and will carry his battle to the floor of the Senate. He will have strong support from not only the Republicans, but from Democratic Senators from Southern and Western agricultural, oil and mining States.

Meanwhile the House is considering district bills and minor measures, awaiting committee action on the pending national labor relations act and other controversial measures.

SEIZE REDS IN PARIS

PARIS, March 13 (INS)—Twenty-seven men and women were arrested today in a Paris suburb on charges of attempting to revive two Communist organizations.

Claim Garner, Farley Alliance

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Close associates of Vice-President Garner said today that he was seeking a political alliance with James A. Farley in an effort to prevent a third term nomination for President Roosevelt.

Such a coalition, they said, probably would offer Farley for second place on the ticket. No information was disclosed, however, as to the postmaster general's attitude.

Garner was represented by friends as believing that his own convention strength, combined with Farley's strength, would be sufficient to stop a first-ballot nomination for Mr. Roosevelt.

It was reported reliably that intimates of Garner and Farley have been exchanging views for the last two weeks and that the two men probably would confer personally soon.

Half a Chest Ends the Test

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Jim Moran, who spent 16 days testing the relative powers of California and Florida sun-shine, bared his two-toned-tanned chest today and said it was a stand off.

"The sun in both California and Florida," he said, "is wonderful, and I have come to the conclusion that neither is better."

With half of his chest covered, Moran lay on the sand for eight days at Miami Beach. Then he hopped a plane for Southern California, covered the Florida-tanned side, and exposed the other.

The test was for two New Yorkers who had a bet.

Untermyer Burial Planned in New York

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., March 17 (INS)—The body of Samuel Untermyer, noted lawyer and international figure, who died here Sunday, will be taken to New York today for burial late this week.

The 82-year-old lawyer died of terminal pneumonia, his physician, Dr. Henry S. Reed said. Earlier it had been reported death was due to heart trouble. Untermyer had been ill for several months and had come to his desert estate near Palm Springs, where for years he had spent his winters, in the hope the climate would aid him in his battle for health.

14 Die as Plane Crashes Volcano

ROME, March 13 (AP)—Fourteen persons aboard an Italian airliner were killed when the plane crashed on the side of Stromboli Volcano in the Lipari Islands while en route from Catania to Rome, flying blind in fog.

The dead included 10 passengers, several of them prominent Milan industrialists, and the crew of four.

MEDWAY SKIPPER DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, March 13—Seth Chase, 56, of West Medway, Mass., captain of the tanker Gulfpenn, of the Gulf Refining Co., was found dead in his cabin today as the ship lay at anchor in the Delaware river. A physician said he died of a heart ailment.

SHOPPING

Dearest Anne,

I hope you have a glorious Easter—'Spose you'll be as busy as a bee finishing up your shopping this week. Here's a list of things I found in town I just couldn't resist. I know you'll want them, too, so why not save time and tuck my letter into your purse right now and you'll be all set for a shopping spree.

Clyde's Scoops the Town Genuine Snakeskin $3

I can barely believe it myself! Sandals of genuine ermine snake—that luxury in shoe fashions which up to now has commanded sky high prices—at only $3. Take my word for it—it's the first time at this low price! Flattering sandals fashioned entirely of genuine ermine snake or doeskin trimmed with ermine snake. So many color combinations I can't BEGIN to list them! Clyde's is at 457 Washington St. Mail orders 15c extra.

Fur Coat Made Like New, $20, Lining Included

By Edwards, that talented furrier with a gift for making old worn furs look like new! He will completely restyle your old Fur Coat for $20. A smart Fur Cape made from your old furs for $7.50. Fur coats relined, material included, $3. Or you may have a new boxy Bolero Jacket, made from your old furs, for $12.50, lining included. The Edwards' Fur Shop is on the 2nd floor, at 168 Tremont Street. Est. 16 years. Dev. 8933. Will gladly call at your home.

Wedgies and More Wedgies At Dunn's, $2.19

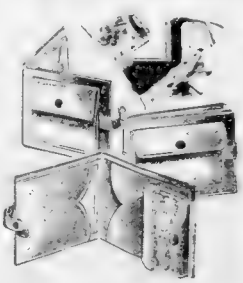
Swing high—Swing low—with high, HIGH heels or smart, new, low heels. Wedgies are in tune with this year's Easter fashions. You'll love the pump in patent and gabardine—gloat over the sandal trimmed with simulated snakeskin. Loads of other styles, too—grand color combinations—in patent, calf or suede. Dunn's is at 85 Summer St. Mail orders 15c extra.

Easter Finery For Little Darlings Dainty Gloves With Bag to Match

Have you a fashion wise young lady in your home—or on your Easter gift list—between the ages of 5 and 12? If you want to make her deliriously happy Easter morning—proud as Punch—and on her very best behaviour, give her this matching glove and bag set. There's a very important grown up feeling about owning your very own hand bag, especially when you have gloves to match. Mothers will like them too, because they're in excellent taste. I've sketched two styles both fashioned of fine quality rayon jersey. The set trimmed with multi-color embroidered flowers comes with or without a long shoulder strap as you prefer. The gloves, 69c—Bag, 69c. White, Navy, Beige, Rose, and Petal Blue. The other style is trimmed with leather and with smart, gold color buttons. Red, White, or Navy, $2 set, complete—or buy them separately at $1 each. Filene's Glove Shop, Street Floor. Mail orders or phone HUBbard 4230 until 9 p. m. (except Sundays).

The Princess Purse Is a "Super" Billfold That Holds Everything!

If you've seen the new sleek, flat bags for Spring you know that the days of tossing everything into a roomy, shapeless catch-all are done and gone. "Thank Heavens," I say, and I bet you're getting a little tired, too, of never finding what you need in a hurry. Jordan's Princess Purse is a prize! Space for your money, cards, memos—a spot for your keys—an outside change compartment, and it all snaps together compactly taking practically no room at all! It's made of genuine leather in Morocco grain and you'll find it is smart as it is practical. Believe you me, THAT'S saying a lot! $1.25. See it in Black, Brown, Green, Navy, Red, Wine in the Leather Goods Dep't in the Jordan Marsh Company, Street Floor, Main Store. Order by mail or phone HUBbard 2700 until 10 p. m. (except Sundays).



Young Easter Paraders Step Out Smartly in Matching Coats and Hats

Very young ladies thrill at their baby faced bonnets chicly matched to their brand new coats. Little men march proudly in the Easter parade in their tiny brimmed Eton caps flashing a gold chevron on their well tailored coats. The coat and hat suits I've sketched are all wool flannel. You'll find them in sizes 2 to 6 in Rose, Blue, and Navy. $3.98 set complete. Other children's coat and hat sets from $1.98. See them in the street floor Infants' Dep't of W. T. GRANT CO., 395 Washington St.

At Tulman's Kitchen Chairs $1.75

Here are some grand extra chairs for your kitchen! Heavy weight, solidly built. Some are maple—some birch. Regularly they were $4 to $6 but NOW only $1.75. TULMAN FURNITURE CO., 184 Friend St.—on your way to the North Station.

Mothers-To-Be Dress Special $5

They've just arrived in time for Easter! Just wait until you see these smart young dresses specially priced at $5.00! The one sketched, a new monk style, with separate jacket is so cleverly concealing you'd hardly guess a little stranger was in the offing! The Maternity Gown and Corset Shop is at 12 West Street—Bigelow Kennard Building. Hub. 6410.

WITH PRISCILLA PRICE

Smartest "Twins" of the Spring
Jordan's Two Tone Gloves and Turban

Here's the newest color accent for your dark costumes right now—the gayest complement for your Easter outfit a standby for all Summer long! I saw the Roll Your Own two color rayon turban draped in seven different becoming styles—and I'll bet you'll invent a lot more. The two faced gloves come in the same clever colors and are of the same smart fabric. Wait till I tell you the grand color combinations you'll find! Black with red, white or gold, Navy with red, white or pastel blue, grey with red, dusty rose with pastel blue. There's a paisley print turban with black and paisley gloves. Also tri-color red, white and blue and solid colors white or pastel blue. Of course the turban fits everyone—and the gloves are small, medium or large. It's high time I told you the set, both gloves AND turban, cost only $1.95 complete and you'll find them in the Jordan Marsh Co. Glove Department, Street Floor, Main Store. Order by mail or phone HUBbard 2700 until 10 p. m. (except Sundays).

La Tausca Pearls Are Such a Lovely Gift—Nice For Everyone to Own, $1

Looking for an Easter gift for a lovely lady? Shopping for just the right last touch to your new outfit? I can't think of anyone that doesn't like La Tausca simulated pearls—doesn't appreciate their lasting lustre. Single strand pearls are classic additions to sweater 'n' skirt outfits—somehow look "right" with nearly everything! The two and three strand are popular, too—and you'll find them at Jordan's with from four to fourteen strands softly twisted in a flattering coil. Yes! Every style costs only $1. The one to three strand styles come boxed in a very elegant lined case and are bound to make a big impression if you have Easter gifts in mind. There's no age limit to the enthusiasm for La Tausca simulated pearls whether you're shopping for your Mother, Aunt Nellie, or your little sister. I'm pretty sure you won't forget yourself! In the Jewelry Department in the Jordan Marsh Co., Street Floor, Main Store. Order by mail or phone HUBbard 2700 until 10 p. m. (except Sundays).

FUNERAL SET FOR R. F. LOPEZ

Funeral services will be held from St. Patrick's Church in Watertown Wednesday morning for Richard F. Lopez, Sr., 53, known as one of the leading foes of keno games in Watertown.

It was Lopez who started the petition which led to the selectmen closing the big keno game sponsored by World War veterans of Watertown. He also wrote an article for the town warrant asking that the issuance of licenses for keno be prohibited.

He leaves his widow, Agnes Lopez, and five children

HARRY G. NOYES

GORHAM, N. H., March 18—Funeral services were being arranged today for Municipal Judge Harry Goodnow Noyes

Judge Noyes, a 33d degree Mason, assisted in the founding of the Masonic Service Association of Washington, D. C., and was a member of the executive board.

He was a past master of the New Hampshire Grand Lodge of Masons and past grand commander of the state commandery.

DON E. CURTIS

Funeral services will be held from the First Congregational Church, Melrose tomorrow at 2 p. m. for Don E. Curtis, 60, retired cashier of the former Melrose National Bank. He had been a resident of Melrose 50 years.

DR. FRANK HINCKLEY

FALL RIVER, March 18—Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. for Dr. Frank B. Hinckley, 63, a retired dentist, widely known in Masonic circles. He leaves his widow and two daughters.

Flier Is Drowned In Newark Bay

NEWARK, N. J., March 18 (INS)—A student flier was downed and his flying instructor narrowly escaped death when a sudden gust of wind overturned a small Taylor cub seaplane taxiing on the choppy surface of Newark Bay.

The drowned student pilot was Floyd Shinn, 25, of North Arlington. His instructor, who was taken to St. Michael's Hospital for treatment for submersion, is Fem. Raymond, 31, of Maplewood

'Sorry for Trouble,' Slayer Executed

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., March 18 (AP)—J. W. Rickman, 22, was electrocuted today for the murder of Patrolman Marion Taylor at McKinney, Tex.

"I am sorry for all the trouble I have caused," he said in a voice that was scarcely audible to the handful of witnesses.

Baering Down On the News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The census violates the bill of rights by about two million volts.

Before the government tabulates the rings in our bathtubs we would like to answer a question with a question.

Have we gone completely nuts? Or has the government taken leave of its census?

P. S.—We don't mind them asking where and how we live. But we do object to them asking why.

IN THE DEMOCRATIC primaries April 30, John Sullivan will be a candidate for district delegate from the 9th District . . . "I am running unpledged," writes Candidate Sullivan, "but I favor Franklin D. MULLING THE BUSINESS OVER, however, we put a poser to ourselves . . . Name, we demanded, a famous athlete in either House of Congress whose prowess on the field of sport was known as widely as to characterize the solon as an "ex-athlete!" . . . We could think of just one, Hamilton Fish of New York, the Harvard pop-off patriot . . . And has there ever been a President who was All-America at any sport, including curling?

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Clyde Lucas returns to the Statler's Terrace Room Thursday . . . Counting out Bing Crosby and listing him as a singer-actor instead of a member of the "music world," Ed Place's publicity release anent Lucas is probably right . . . Ed says that Lucas is "the best golfer in the music world" . . . Clyde made a hole-in-one at Wollaston last year—that we know . . . With a warm welcome to Maestro Lucas, the column wishes to express its annual going-away salute to Leighton Noble, one of our most favored conductors.

JOE MAGALDI, the Boston supervisor of WU messengers, is ailing at his home in Braintree . . . This smart young organizer stages the "Annual Messenger Revue and Dance," and this year's will be the fourth . . . The kids who work under Mr. Magaldi's direction are rooting hard for his speedy recovery . . . The troupe has an understudy to "Sharkey" who knows more tricks and is a much better actor than "Sharkey," (and this possibly will be denied) . . . The No. 1 Seal is being saved for REAL emergencies—when not playing a "college-town" . . . Speaking of "Higher and Higher," was that disrespectful Yale speech "in" while the show played there . . . We hear that "Harvard" was substituted—and will go back in the script for N. Y.

$1000 Vanishes From Desk in Somerville

Somerville police inspectors are investigating the disappearance of an automobile concern in McGrath Highway, Somerville. The money, police report, was placed in the desk Saturday evening. When employes reported for work today, and opened the desk drawer, the money was not there.

Police said they found no evidence of a break and the drawer in which the money had been placed showed no evidence of having been tampered with.

'Ist Lady' Hits Census Critics

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today that the boiling argument about census questions was "foolish," that people in small towns already knew everything about their neighbors.

Otherwise, in her press conference, the First Lady said:

"At best, there must be some uncertainty about whether the Roosevelt will be in Washington next year."

Former Gungirl Fined With Man

Arrested today with a man on a morals charge in her Commonwealth ave., Allston, apartment, "Ethel Dubard," 26, took on a new interest in Brighton court when probation officials said she actually was Helen Orzolek, recently of Sherborn Reformatory.

Arrested with her was a man who gave his name as James Wagner of Tremont st., South End, but police said they had reason to believe he was a Portsmouth, N. H., salesman.

Each paid a fine of $20 when found guilty by Judge Thomas H. Connelly, then they hurried out of court.

Probation officials said they had checked with the State House following the raid and had learned the girl twice had escaped from Sherborn, and twice had been recaptured, the second time just after becoming a mother in Bridgeport, Ct.

She had been committed to the women's reformatory originally in 1931 as a 16-year-old gun girl allegedly implicated in many robberies.

Rambach Rites On Wednesday

Funeral services for Hyman H. Rambach, of Beacon st., Chestnut Hill, Hebrew philanthropist, will be conducted in Temple Israel Meeting House Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. Mr. Rambach passed away in Florida on March 17.

oBrn in Kovno, Lithuania, he came to this country as a boy and rose from the ranks in the real estate business. He was one of the pioneers in developing one-story commercial blocks in Boston.

He is survived by his widow, Sadie, a son and two daughters.

was the Hawks' regular end for four years, and captain of the football team in '36 . . . He was chosen by both the Boston College and Holy Cross squads as a member of their "all-opponent team."

IN THE DEMOCRATIC primaries April 30, John Sullivan will be a candidate for district delegate from the 9th District . . . "I am running unpledged," writes Candidate Sullivan, "but I favor Franklin D. MULLING THE BUSINESS OVER, however, we put a poser to ourselves . . . Name, we demanded, a famous athlete in either House of Congress whose prowess on the field of sport was known so widely as to characterize the solon as an "ex-athlete?" . . . We could think of just one, Hamilton Fish of New York, the Harvard pop-off patriot . . . And has there ever been a President who was All-America at any sport, including curling?

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Clyde Lucas returns to the Statler's Terrace Room Thursday . . . Counting out Bing Crosby and listing him as a singer-actor instead of a member of the "music world," Ed Place's publicity release anent Lucas is probably right . . . Ed says that Lucas is "the best golfer in the music world" . . . Clyde made a hole-in-one at Wollaston last year—that we know . . . The troupe has an understudy to "Sharkey" who knows more tricks and is a much better actor than "Sharkey," (and this possibly will be denied) . . . The No. 1 Seal is being saved for REAL emergencies—when not playing a "college-town" . . . Speaking of "Higher and Higher," was that disrespectful Yale speech "in" while the show played there . . . We hear that "Harvard" was substituted—and will go back in the script for N. Y.

BELATED BUNNIES will be pulled out of Easter bonnets before an incredulous and sophisticated matinee audience at John Hancock Hall this Saturday after Easter when Bertram Adams of Brookline presents an "Afternoon of Magic" for the benefit of the Women's City Club . . .

The fascination of magic and sleight of hand will lure hundreds of youngsters and agile minded adults to this affair which is being planned under the able chairmanship of Mrs. Samuel Lindsay of Brookline . . .

Assisting her with committee duties are Mrs. Albert C. Titcomb who has just returned from a trip to Mexico; Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson, Mrs. Samuel Newman, Mrs. William Stanley Parker, Mrs. Leland Powers, Mrs. Farwell Bemis, Miss Lavinia Sabine and Mrs. Leonard Carmichael . . .

Mr. Adams, a popular entertainer at after dinner parties in many Beacon Hill drawing rooms, exclusive clubs and private schools, will baffle his audience with feats of magic discovered in the ancient lore of Egypt, China and India . . . The program will include the famous Hindu needle trick which took him 21 years to perfect . . . He is founder of the International Society for Mystic Research . . .

Large parties of young people from private schools are planning to attend and among the early subscribers are Mrs. Constantine A. Belash, Mrs. Edward B. Bayley, Miss Winnifred M. Beck and Miss Sarah F. Bradlee of Boston; Mrs. David Howie of Cambridge; Mrs. William Lloyd Garrison, Jr. of West Newton; Mrs. Stuart Hutchins of Wellesley Hills; Mrs. Adah Kendall, Mrs. Ralph E. Green for St. Pat—or Maybe Spring

WHETHER BY COINCIDENCE or in honor of St. Pat we dont know, but Edith Shaw and her debutante dinner guests Saturday evening all wore gowns of green or greenish blue . . . The party, for a group of intimate friends who later went on to the debut dance for Violet Brooks and Sally Russell, was held in the Balinese Room where Edith presided at the end of a long flower decked table . . . Her gown of jade green taffeta had a billow skirt which swirled around her ankles as she waltzed . . . Among the guests were Edith's father, Herbert B. Shaw, and attractive Mrs. Shaw in a plum taffeta gown; Mr. and Mrs. Constantine Hutchins, blonde Louise Sargent and Edith's cousin, Gertrude Shaw . . . The latter's gown of turquoise taffeta had a full skirt with a flower design made of net insets . . . Miss Sargent's green satin had narrow gold ribbons appliqued in an intricate design over the skirt . . .

DR. AND MRS. JOE V. MEIGS of Woodland rd., Chestnut Hill, bask in the sunlight on the golf course at Pebble Beach, Cal., on a late winter vacation. Mrs. Meigs, the former Elizabeth Wallace, is active in Boston's social and musical circles.

Opera Season Is Home Lure

The opera season in Boston is always the signal for travelers to return from sojourns in the Sunny South and many of society's music lovers are cutting short their trips in order to be in their accustomed places at the Boston Opera House during the Metropolitan's engagement, March 23 to April 6.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cox, just returned tanned and rested from a cruise to Martinique, will join the gay family parties in Mrs. Hugh Bancroft's box in the Golden Horseshoe. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson have taken a box for every performance and other boxholders for the entire season include Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Sears, who always attend with their two lovely daughters, Sally and Elizabeth.

Box parties will also be given by George Bancroft Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wolcott, Mr. and Mrs. William Tudor Gardiner, Mr. and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Sampson, Mrs. George H. Monks, Mrs. Edward L. Higelow, Mrs. Clement S. Houghton, Mrs. E. D. Remick and Mrs. Richard Curtis.

PRE-EASTER VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Luce and Mrs. Oliver Turner are among Bostonians enjoying a pre-Easter visit to New York.

These Are Satisfying Desserts

By MARTHA LEE

For good-natured warmth and rich goodness, a satisfying sweet dessert cannot be equalled. It is the perfect finale for a light family meal of spring's new fresh vegetables. It is the whole show for a "dessert and coffee" or tea party or club meeting.

Here are three recipes that make equally fine party desserts and family standbys.

FUDGE PUDDING

3 cups milk
3 tbsp. butter
2 squares chocolate
¼ tsp. salt
2 cups bread cubes
2 eggs
2 cups sugar
½ cup chopped dates or nuts

Heat milk, butter, chocolate and salt, and pour over bread cubes. Cool slightly and add beaten eggs. Add sugar. Add fruit or nuts. Bake in greased baking dish in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

SAUCE

1 cup sugar
1 tbsp. flour
1 cup milk
1 tbsp. butter
½ tsp. vanilla

Mix in order given. Boil together 5 minutes and cool. Serve over pudding.

SCONE SHORTCAKE

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. sugar
4 tbsp. shortening
2 eggs
½ cup milk

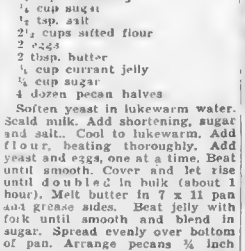
Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening. Beat 1 whole egg and 1 egg yolk, saving 1 egg white for tops. Add milk to beaten eggs, and add all to dry ingredients. Stir only enough to make dough hold together. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead ½ minute. Roll out in circular shape to ½ inch thickness. Cut into pie-shaped pieces. Brush tops with white of egg and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

When baked, split hot scones, butter, and fill with crushed sweetened fruit. Replace tops and pour fruit over. Garnish with fruit. Makes 10 to 12 scones.

CURRANT JELLY COFFE CAKE

1 cake compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
½ cup milk
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
½ tsp. salt
2½ cups sifted flour
2 eggs
2 tbsp. butter
½ cup currant jelly
¼ cup sugar
4 dozen pecan halves

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add shortening, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add flour, beating thoroughly. Add yeast and eggs, one at a time. Beat until smooth. Cover and let rise until double in bulk (about 1 hour). Melt butter in 7 x 11 pan and grease sides. Beat jelly with fork until smooth and blend in sugar. Spread evenly over bottom of pan. Arrange pecans ¾ inch apart. Pour batter over mixture. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk (about 30 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 1 coffe cake.



New Shampoo Method—Specially Made for Blondes—Washes Hair Shades Lighter—Safely!

Mothers and daughters stay young together when using Blondex. Gray hairs and streaks, bronze coloring and dull, lifeless hair shades lighter—safely! Smart Set Fashions

PHIL Macdonald, well-known designer, created this stunning rhumba dress for the 1940 silhouette . . . this is a grand example of the long torso trend, which Miss Macdonald likes particularly well . . . the T shape which a woman's figure makes when the shoulders are built out gently, the bodice closely swathed, is very smart this year. This dinner dress is of flat black crepe, its sleeves tight in the forearm and slightly full at the top, with its waist fitted by a row of shirring down the front. The very full skirt starts well below the hips, and is a lush, large print in all the shades of full blown roses on a black ground. The Macdonald collection included also a striking range of blues for spring . . . she showed a preference for bright navies, turquoise, king's blue, usually combined with white, yellow or rose tones . . .

BOSTON DEBS AID ANTIQUES SHOW

Nineteen debutantes, headed by Dorothy Gannett and Anne Delano Grant will be dressed in colorful smocks in French colors, made of red and white candy stripes with blue trimmings, to add a festive note to the special opening of the annual N. E. Antiques Exposition at the Copley Plaza tomorrow evening.

Mrs. Robert W. Lovett, co-chairman of the American Friends of France which will benefit from admission proceeds of the four-day show, will welcome the prominent guests. A program of old French music by members of the Longy School of Music will be an added feature of the gala opening.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
Monday, March 18

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are sensitive, pleasant in disposition though inclined to be fickle and impractical in planning. You need firm but intelligent management of self to bring out your finer nature. Can be appealed to by just praise and encouragement. You can do great good with your magnetic personality and fine capability. Don't compromise with wrong. Be attentive to important issues, quick to act when the occasion demands.

LUCKY NUMBER Today's lucky number is 31.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is egg shell bronze blue.

Send 15 cents and large self-addressed stamped envelope to Frances Drake, Boston American, Box 2225, Boston, for an individual horoscope, personal guide, and lucky calendar for the first six months of 1940, giving the day and month you were born.

BAKED APPLES AND PRUNES

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)
Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

6 large, firm red apples
1 c. granulated sugar
1 c. water
2 tbsp. granulated sugar
Cream
6 cooked prunes

METHOD OF PREPARATION

Core the apples; then pare them about 1-3 of the way down from the stem end, and arrange in a shallow baking dish. Boil the 1 c. sugar and the water together for 10 min. Pour over the apples. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 deg. F. for about 1 hr., or until tender, basting frequently. Insert a cooked prune in the top of each apple; spread the pared surface of each with 1 tsp. sugar. Place the pan of apples under the broiler heat. Baste them frequently and watch them; the pared section is a delicate brown. Serve hot or cold with cream or whipped cream. Serves 6. To serve 2 or 3 use ½ this recipe. If desired, the apple parings may be cooked with the sugar and water to give the syrup more flavor. Afterward, remove the parings.

Sticks, with pork roast. Baked stuffed sweet potatoes and string beans for dinner.

Martin Pattern

Pattern 9341 may be ordered only in misses and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards 35-inch fabric.

To get this pattern send Fifteen cents to Boston Evening American Pattern Department, 234 West 18th St., New York N. Y. Ten cents additional will bring you our newest Pattern Book.

You Can Be Beautiful

Quaint Easter Gifts

By ARLINE GOULD

Speaking of Easter gifts . . . which we have been doing all week . . . have you seen the quaint little wooden containers, inspired by a colonial garden and holding charmingly scented packages of garnet, which are now on sale in a Boston department store for just one?

Giving a pretty gift for only fifty cents is one idea of a buy purchase. A white tea container will serve just as well as one for coffee or dressing table, as well as a holder of matches, bath salts or beads.

These attractive little gifts are inspired by reproductions of colonial household implements. A basket-shaped receptacle for instance, holds a wee bottle of newly perfumed cologne, just a bit of garnet, and a tiny sachet, all ready for wrapping or placing a pretty sprig of fragrant sachet.

The Colonial theme, we added, the clerk said, and the world from the well is pretty excited. She is a little worried, I think, to me, when we were in a rush with your young daughter. She comes apart just below the first neckline and has a little of scent.

There are many other charms of these wooden pieces and pieces all of them in excellent taste and the perfumes can be cologne and sachets which they contain are delicate and pleasing.

These cost a dollar each when they appeared as Christmas gifts but have now been marked down to half price I am told you where to find them if you call Liberty 4000, weekdays except Saturdays or write me enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

SKIPPER OF FLINT GUEST AT DINNER

Mrs. James Cunningham Gray, Mrs. Charles P. Howard, Mrs. Edward H. Rollins, Mrs. Charles B. Gulick and Mr. Oscar Hausenman will be guests at the head table with Capt. J. A. Gaines, host at the Wednesday night dinner of the Women's Republican Club this evening. After dinner, Capt. Gaines will speak on the history and crossing of the City of Flint, of which he is captain.

BE A FASHION ARTIST

FOLLOW METHODS SUCCESSFUL ARTISTS USE

Both ambitious, both good in drawing at school. But one is now a fashion artist—and the other is stuck in a dull job.

And the only difference between them (between success and failure for you, too, perhaps) is professional knowledge.

How can you get such knowledge? Right at home you can study methods used by successful fashion artists, you can learn the principles of drawing from simple diagrams, charts.

For instance, the diagram with our picture above shows the proportions of the face.

Try sketching it. Draw a vertical line from hair line to chin. Divide it in thirds and locate eyebrows, the tip of the nose. And now you're ready to draw in the details of the face.

From similar charts and simple instructions you learn the proportions of the entire figure, how to draw it fashionably clothed, in various poses, in action.

Soon comes the grand day when you put your portfolio under your arm and start out to sell your work. Where to go? Department stores, advertising agencies, magazines, all use fashion art.

Our 40-page booklet, Home Course in Fashion Art, gives you easy-to-follow instruction in fashion drawing. Has 150 illustrations including charts based on the Da Vinci rules of figure proportion. Explains fore-shortening, composition, flat and small, wash, rendering of textiles, furs.

Send 15 cents or coins for our booklet, Home Course in Fashion Art, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th st., New York, N. Y. Write plainly.

BLONDIE — "That Ain't the Way I Heared It"

A MARRIAGE HAS BEEN DISARRANGED

By BERTA RUCK

A Complete Short Story Daily on This Page

"TOMORROW is actually her wedding-day!—Aren't you terribly excited, Bryda?"

"Yes. Oh, yes."

"Of course!" twittered Bryda's aunts, fondly approvingly. For the last time they had come over to tea with Bryda as an unmarried girl in her own home.

With them was the wife of the rector who was to perform tomorrows' ceremony. She purred. "No girl could ask for a more ideal romance. Dear Cyril . . ."

Cyril Wayte and his fiancee had played together as children. Or so Cyril's mother put it. Friends said that this was to make her seem younger. Her boy had been fourteen when he used, condescendingly, to give rides on the front of his bicycle to the little four-year-old girl, to whom he was now engaged.

However, what are ten years, when they are to the man's credit? An advantage, said friends

Thirty-two, Cyril's present age, is the ideal age at which a man should marry. By that time he's got over his tiresomeness about first loves and what would probably be quite the Wrong Girl.

Not that dear sensible Cyril had ever been "tiresome."

Cyril had always been wrapped up in his profession. An ideal schoolmaster was such a thoroughly good influence, said parents.

"So delightful that Bryda isn't going far afield," said the rector's wife. "She won't feel as if she'd left old friends . . . That wrench of parting is so sad for a young bride. But your new nest, Bryda, is only three miles away."

"Two-and-a-half," said Bryda, "to the school gates."

"And if by any chance war did come," said Cyril's mother—for this was in July—"Cyril's wife will have the happiness of knowing that Cyril will be kept safe at home——"

"And doing work of national importance even though he isn't in the fighting forces." Bryda finished the sentence, which she had heard before.

The Cast of Characters in "A Marriage Has Been Disarranged"

BRYDA, who seems indifferent as to her approaching wedding to CYRIL.
THELMA, Bryda's intended bridesmaid
AN AVIATOR.

A SECURE MAN

Here enters Bryda's chief bridesmaid, Thelma. Dark-eyed Chief Bridesmaid Thelma was nearly as attractive, in her style, as blonde Bryda in hers. Some people had prophesied that dear Cyril and Thelma had been mutually attracted, showing what mistakes people can make.

Thelma had brought a dainty packet. She was one of these superlingerie experts.

But no placid patience for Thelma. Politely she greeted the tea-cake munching dowagers, then asked the bride-to-be if she would like to discuss trousseaux with her chief bridesmaid upstairs?

In the big spare room the flawless new suitcases and wardrobe trunk stood, open-lidded.

"Definitely honeymoon wear," quoted Thelma. "But you've decided against the wedding trip to Italy?"

"Cyril decided it was rather risky, so he's arranged for a month in the Lake district."

"You must feel so well-looked-after, leaving everything for a rocklike, dependable man to arrange."

"Yes. Oh, yes. It doesn't always rain in the Lakes?"

"Even if it rains, you're with Cyril," said Thelma with a searching look.

Wedding presents made a glittering bazaar of the drawing-room with long windows. "Bryda! You must feel like a Princess with hoards of fairy godmothers!"

"Yes, yes, I must—"

"As well as everything for the new home! My dear, what a divine fur hearth rug for Cyril to stand on, from his sisters! And those etchings for the hall; marvellous. And what's this that you haven't even opened?"

It was the daintiest of china. One of the newest early-morning tea services for two.

"How deliciously bridal! This seems to be the last?"

"Yes; the last straw!" said the bride-to-be, wildly, and she began to laugh and laugh as though she could not stop.

What's the matter with Bryda?" twittered the aunts, crowding in . . . "It's just the excitement——"

"Brides often break down with sheer over-excitement and happiness the day before."

"A glass of water, dear."

"I would like some air, please," gasped Bryda. "Don't come . . . I'll be all right . . . I'll go into the garden——"

The garden of Bryda's home was the talk of a county and was thrown open to the public on certain days, with entrance one shilling, all the shillings to go to the Nursing Association.

Everybody had told Bryda, "You must feel pleased about the date you're getting married; the gardens will be a blaze of color, as dear Cyril said, for your wedding!"

Nobody had allowed her to think whether she felt anything else.

Now she felt as if the house had turned black and were closing in on her. She took to her heels and ran out. The red and white marquee, with the refreshment tables (where tomorrow she must cut the towering, three-tiered wedding cake), was set up on the green velvet lawn.

"Hate you," gasped Bryda, apparently to the marquee as she ran past.

A sudden harsh roar filled the sky. A wide-winged shape blackened the sun. There was a wild commotion in the foliage of the copper beeches at the end of the lawn. Down in that almighty crash came one of the striped poles supporting the marquee. The very end of the pole just caught Bryda on the head. She was flung down, on to the turf; she lay just clear of a scatter of broken glass and a bubbling, whispering pool of spilled champagne in which guests were to have drunk happiness and long life to the bride!

"Keep her quiet," said the voice of the family doctor. "It's nothing but that grazing knock that's stunned her."

Bryda opened her eyes in her own room.

"Ah, that's good, young lady. Not a scratch to show, under your hair. Now I'll go and have another look at the young fellow. Just rest, and you'll feel all right for the 'Grand Do' tomorrow!"

Bryda, lying alone, felt only an amazing relief to be out of the staring sunshine, away from the glitter of wedding presents, away from ceaseless congratulatory chatter.

Later Thelma slipped in, whispered conspiratorially, "Bryda! May he come in for one moment?"

Thelma slipped in, whispering conspiratorially, "Bryda! May he come in for one moment?"

"Not Cyril!"

"No! The man who tried to kill you."

Over Thelma's shoulder peered a coppery-head with a bandage on it, and the face of a stranger—yet, somehow, familiar to Bryda. A pale, anxious, engagingly-irregular young face.

"I'VE MET YOU!"

'A bird dashed right into my propeller. I . . . I only just made it," the airman stammered apologetically, "but I'm so mad sorry you're hurt—

Bryda felt like a girl in a dream. "But—I've met you! When I was staying with friends on the Coast! It is you—

"And—You!" he said; then his smile went out. "Is it true you are going to get married tomorrow?"

Extraordinary, the answer of a bride-to-be—"I don't know how I am to get out of it!"

Then and only then she realized how for weeks, months, years, she had allowed herself to be coaxed, pushed, driven towards the marriage by other people.

She knew for certain now, how passionately she had wanted—to escape!

Or the wedding—first "postponed because of the slight accident to the bride" it was presently announced that it "would not take place."

General amazed disapproval among all friends, relatives and bridesmaids — except of course, Thelma.

That girl always meant to get hold of dear Cyril, said everybody. We knew it. Yet she suits him, somehow. Didn't Thelma look superb, in her white Molyneux gown and veil and head-dress? And dear, dear Cyril, so handsome? They really had a beautiful, elaborately-arranged wedding. More than poor little Bryda had, to that haphazard young flying officer she had married on the rebound, said everybody.

Bryda's wedding came off in September.

Just a war wedding of the present-day utilitarian type, without many guests, without flowers or frills. The bride's semi tailored suit and the bridegroom's Air Force uniform were set against a drab enough background of war-time London, of piled sand-bags, of gas mask carriers, of criss-crossed window-panes, with white guide lines on the pavements underfoot and coveys of barrage balloons in the skies overhead—but with one truly bridal feature.

Only one

That ideal happiness radiating from the young faces of the only two people concerned—the plighted lovers!

THE END.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employes of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of such families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the contest Editor c/o the Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance, in the office of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In cases of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others, the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestant.

Who's Dead? Who's Pinched?

DALLAS, March 18 (AP)—A hearse zigzagged down the street.

Officers J. W. Ferguson and Dal Lee pursued it.

"Who's dead?" asked Lee.

"Lotsa people. Whatsha think we got graveyards for?" replied the driver.

"What do you think we've got jails for?" the officers countered.

They arrested him for drunken driving.

HOW YOU CAN GET A $100 LOAN IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $6.41 A MONTH

You can get cash simply and promptly at Household Finance, if you can repay your loan in monthly installments. You borrow without endorsers or guarantors and repay on the installment plan which fits your own needs and your own income.

Choose your own payment plan

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. (Loans are also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Note that you may make very small payments if you wish. See also that the sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Charges on a $100 loan repaid in four monthly installments of $26.58 each, for instance, are only $6.32. (All payments shown in the table include the charges.)

CASH LOAN YOU GET	AMOUNT YOU PAY BACK EACH MONTH Including All Charges

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at Household's rate of 2½% per month, which is less than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law.

H. E. HENDERSON, PRES. & TREAS.

How to borrow

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is acquaint us with your needs. No salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds required. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives. No need to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers. You get your loan promptly and simply.

Study the loan and payment table. Then come in or telephone for full information without obligation.

AUSTEN LAKE

A Case Against College Pitchers

EXCEPT FOR WORKING HOURS WHEN THE Bees are gathering honey in the converted meadow which is their training yard, one seldom sees Bob Quinn.

The Bees buzz saw president, a little leaner about the jaws, a little more silvery in the hair and a little more silent, goes each other noon to perch under the eaves of the grandstand and dream over the scene with his chin cupped in the hollow of his hand. Sometimes he appears at the press sessions and listens to Casey Stengel's lectures, interposing a word here and there in a dry crackling voice. But when evening comes he no longer sits on the hotel threshold giving papa-talks to his athletes. No longer does he live on a level with his rawest recruits, hoist his heels onto the porch rails and reel off reminiscence. His humor seems more solitary in late years. He spends longer spells in his room writing his letters, telephoning long distances or conferring with his helpers. For Southern training is no social frolic for Bob. It's a sweaty business which he supervises with an X-ray eye.

AUSTEN LAKE.

BOB IS 70 NOW AND HIS PREJUDICES have crystalized through the years. I remember after Hector Wagner's managerial flop, how he vowed never to hire a pilot who smoked a pipe, because it soothed him into a state of sleep walking. He is militant against night baseball. And, though he has a few ex-college ball players on his present roster, I don't think he favors the varsity sort—perhaps he finds they demand too much reward for too little effort. Well, Joe Callahan had a year at Northeastern, John Dagenais graduated from Ohio State, Don French is from Michigan Teachers and Billy Weir from New Hampshire. All are pitchers with the current Bees.

I've heard Bob say, "I wouldn't give a dime a dozen for all the college pitchers in the country." He thinks they are too money hungry, that they discourage too easily and have a sneaking notion that baseball is no fit employment for cultured persons. "Not all," he agrees. "I signed George Sisler out of Michigan as a pitcher and he turned into a pretty good first baseman."

Quinn has history on his side, for almost every college pitching "great" has been a conspicuous flop on the major leagues. Remember Owen Carroll and Frank Nekola of Holy Cross? Remember Charley Devens of Harvard? And Bill Breckinridge and Ted Olson of Dartmouth? And Johnny Broaca of Yale—to mention only a few.

Carroll was the most magnificent bust of all. He had been a wizard at Mt St James for three years, losing only a couple of ball games before passing, one June afternoon, to the Detroit Tigers. Ty Cobb was managing the Tigers and they were playing at Fenway Park. A capacity crowd jammed the stands, overflowing the aisles and the right wing of the outfield. But, sad to relate, Ira Flagstead punched Ownie's first pitch down the third baseline for a double and the rest was roul. Indeed, Carroll never recovered his breath and, after a season or two, bagged down to baseball's lower levels until he was lost to sight. The "stuff" which had been so potent in college circles was just mallard broth, or duck soup, to the pros.

Then there was Nekola for whom the Yankees peeled off an unbelievable $17,000 to sign and another $5000 salary 'twixt July and September. But Frankie flopped too! He sagged down to Newark the next year and never rose above the level of Class AA ball, so the Yankees never realized five cents worth for their $22,000.

Something similar happened to Breckinridge for whom, in a spendthrift moment, Connie Mack paid $5000 to sign, $5000 as salary, and $5000 as a full share of the World Series. But after the season ended Bill pocketed his $15,000, which was a hunk of wealth for anybody in that period of dollar dearth. Yes! Bill pocketed his 15 grand, retired to his Texas home, married a wealthy social bud and began studying law in his daddy's office.

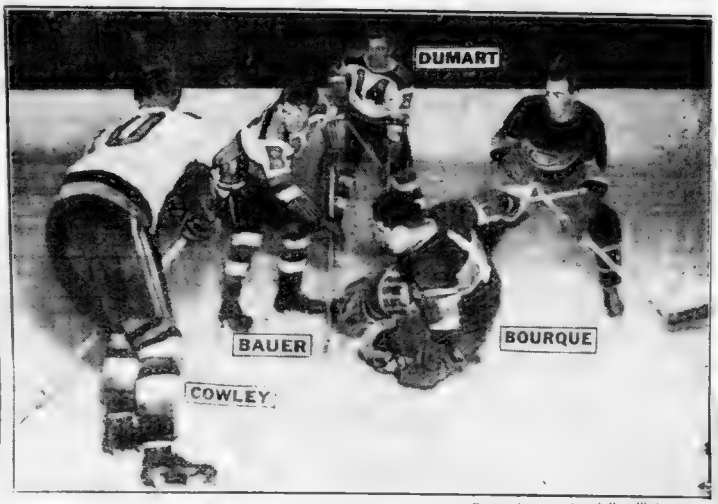
THE DEVENS CASE WAS PARALLEL. Charley had curled the edges of the Ivy League with his raw pitching power and his jughandle curve. Judge Emil Fuchs of the old Braves had wanted him. But the Yankees got him. I happened to be in the room at the Brunswick Hotel when he signed. Joe McCarthy and Papa Devens sat on either side, enacting a little tableau for the news cameramen while Charley said in his best Mass. Avenue accent that he proposed to make baseball his life's career. Then Daddy Devens said something about, "Spoiliandid opportoon-etih." But though Charley seemed to have the natural stuff to make good in the majors he hung around only a couple of semesters doing odd bull pen jobs and occasionally finishing a lost cause. In the end the $10,000 which he received for signing might just as well have been heaved down a manhole. Because after a bit Charley jumped overboard and swam back to Boston to enter the bond business, marry into the social register and take his place in the super-ultra strata of Boston royalty—than which there is nothing higher but the angels.

So maybe Bob's antipathy toward college pitchers springs from sound sense. He knows from experience that the campus-bred kid is loath to go through the sweaty discouragement of learning his trade in horse-and-buggy and barefoot league. After a brief spell in the honky-tonks he is apt to think this no career for brilliant brains.

Which may be why the greatest pitchers in the major league history have not been products of the classroom, but lads from the hayfields, slagheaps and cobblestones, like Dizzy Dean, Grover Alexander, Walter Johnson, Carl Hubbell, Red Ruffing and Lefty Grove. For every college pitcher like the late, great Christy Mathewson or Jack Coombs I will name you forty like "Three Finger" Brown, Big Ed Walsh, Chief Bender, Rube Marquard, Babe Ruth, Carl Mays, et cetera.

Rangers 5-3 Choice To Win First Game



Boston American Speed Ray Photograph

STRATEGY THAT FAILED—Bill Cowley joins Bob Bauer and Woody Dumart of the Kraut line with Milt Schmidt back on defense as Coach Cooney Weiland tries to maneuver Bill into fourth scoring position back of the Kraut Kids. But this and other attacks failed, due to brisk work by Goalie Bourque. Cowley ended season tied for fourth with several other icemen. New Speed Ray camera stops action in Garden combat.

EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, March 18—Cocky, but far from overconfident, the Bruins party left town early this afternoon headed for New York to open the first round of their Stanley Cup defense against the troublesome Rangers at the Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The news that the Broadway betting element had installed the Rangers as a 5 to 3 choice to take the opening game was not taken too seriously by the Bruins.

In view of the fact that the B's have come up with two victories and a tie in their last three starts against the Blue Shirts the betting quotations seem a bit far fetched.

TEAM IN PERFECT SHAPE

However, the Rossmen are not too greatly concerned over betting odds. Every man from Dit Clapper down knows that a win over the Rangers tomorrow night will put the Boston team in the driver's seat with the next two games at home.

Knowing, too, that they must be in perfect shape for the opener, the boys did little more than go through the motions in the season's windup against the lowly Canadiens last night.

In fact with all 16 players in the "pink," Manager Art Ross will have troubles deciding the man who will not dress.

Chances are that it will be either Red Hamill or Flash Hollett. Uncle Arthur, though, was very emphatic in stating that he would not decide on the 15 men to dress until just before game time.

Ross did reveal that the program until game time tomorrow night consisted for rest and more rest. The players get into New York at 7 o'clock tonight and will retire early.

One factor that took the evening out of a drab classification was the pre-game presentation of three awards by Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, who made a special trip to Boston for the occasion.

But it was handsome Aubrey "Dit" Clapper, debonair Bruins' captain, who took the limelight away from the veteran hockey executive. Aubrey not only received and retired the Dufresne silver plate for being voted the most valuable Bruins player of the year at home, but he also took the Prince of Wales trophy on behalf of the club, the reward for the Rossmen having won the National

Cool Reception for Dizzy

LOS ANGELES, March 18 (AP)—Jerome Herman Dean, who isn't as talkative as he once was, is back in the fold.

Diz signed a contract last night to pitch this season for the Chicago Cubs. He will receive $10,000—just half what he drew last year.

Chronologically, his Sabbath ven... something like this:

12:30 p. m.—Stepped off a train from Dallas, five hours late. Hopped into a cab for Wrigley Field, where the Cubs were billed in an exhibition against Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics.

1:10 p. m.—Walked into the Cub dressing room, to a few not too enthusiastic "Hi' yas." The reception was definitely chilly.

1:28 p. m.—Found Clarence (Pants) Rowland, Cub executive, and started a conference.

1:37 p. m.—Rowland announced, "We're deadlocked. Dean knows the terms of his contract and it's up to him."

1:3b p. m.—Dean remarks, "If I'd known this was the way it would be I wouldn't have come out at all."

1:48 p. m.—Settles himself wearily and alone in a left field box to watch the game, observing, "It looks like I'll be catching the train back to Dallas. I got to get back to my farm and get to farming."

3:40 p. m.—Comments, "That was all right" anent the Cubs' 4-2 victory, enters a cab and drives away.

4:15 p. m.—Walks into Rowland's hotel room.

5:45 p. m.—Walks out again, arm in arm with the Cub official, bound for a party at Charlie Root's house. "He signed for $10,000," Rowland smiles.

N. L. Reserves Put Americans Over Hurdles

TAMPA Fla., March 18 (AP)—The long-abused National Leaguers today strutted the streets in broad daylight, and if pressed, very lightly, would say casually:

"Oh yes, the American League. We had their stars over for a practice game yesterday. Beat them, 2 to 1, with our reserves."

Which, in essence, is true. The National League stars did win an exhibition game, which more than 33,000 spectators contributed approximately $20,000 to the Finnish relief fund to see. And three substitutes did blend their talents to score the winning run in the ninth inning.

But in reality, the game proved nothing, except that the pitchers are far ahead of the batters at spring training.

However, the victory was greeted gleefully by the senior circuit. It was St. Patrick's Day to the rest of the country, but it was ground hog day to the National Leaguers who popped out of the holes in which they had been all-ing since the last world series to yelp defiance.

SIX HITS FOR NATS

But a spring exhibition it was a corking ball game, with the big surprise the inability of the row on row of siege guns in the American lineup to get much more than a loud foul. They were held to five hits, Bill Dickey and Frank Crosetti getting two each and Jimmy Foxx one, and none was better than a single.

The National Leaguers collected six blows, all singles, putting two of them together in the ninth for the ball game.

Al Lopez of the Bees was the game's big hero, scoring the winning run in the ninth.

As the heavy-hitters on both teams were stymied, the parade of pitchers marched serenely along.

GUMBERT WINNER

Bill McKechnie, Red manager in charge of the Nationals, started Paul Derringer, and followed with Kirby Higbe, Luke Hamlin, Bucky Walters and Harry Gumbert, with Gumbert the winning pitcher. Joe McCarthy, American pilot who started seven of his Yankees, sent Red Ruffing to the mound, and followed him with Newsom, Dutch Leonard, and Feller.

The game was replete with good plays, including a neat catch by Hank Greenberg, Detroit's reformed first baseman, in left field, and five fast double killings.

ACE DIET-ER MOE BERG TRYING TO SLIM RICH

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 18.—Moe Berg is a stickler on diet. He watches his proteins, his starches, his fats and his vitamins more carefully perhaps than any man in athletics.

For the entire first month he is in training here he exists on one meal a day.

He has a glass of orange juice in the morning, and a glass of buttermilk at noon. He takes a nap from 4 to 6, then has dinner at eight. He did it all during the two-a-day sessions, and he's still doing it though the daily games have started.

He loses ten pounds every spring that way without overstraining himself physically, and he claims he never had a headache in his life. When the playing season opens he has two meals a day, breakfast at 10, dinner at 8.

Moe has seen many a ball player of major league ability sink to minor league obscurity because of fondness for the dining room, and he has saved many another from similar obscurity by sapient warnings.

RICH LATEST CLIENT

Woody Rich is Moe's latest client. Woody, you know, is the 6-2 ploughboy from the backwoods of North Carolina who pitched like Grover Cleveland Alexander here last spring. And he kept pitching like the old master until a sore arm sidetracked him to Louisville.

Now Woody is a young married man of 23 with exemplary habits. He doesn't drink or smoke. He's always in bed before the curfew. And being a healthy young animal he loves to eat.

In the morning he'd stow enough groceries to supply a boarding house for a week, and just before afternoon drill he'd tuck away a steak or two for fear he might get weak on the ball field.

It showed in his actions. His arm was sound again. He was whipping them by as of yore. But he tired easily for no apparent reason.

LECTURE "TAKES"

Moe gave him one of his best Princeton lectures.

The next morning the entire squad was out together. Rich started to warm up.

"Get out in that garden and shag 'em," barked Manager Cronin. "And keep shaggin' 'em until I call you in."

Woody put on his windbreaker and went out. When he wasn't chasing balls hit by the batters, he was chasing those hit by Tom Daly.

"Look at him go," chuckled Moe. "That's just what he needs. Watch him pitch the next time out."

Woody came in eventually and did his throwing. Berg caught him. When he had enough Moe gave the signal. Cronin came over.

"No lunch today, Woody," he said. "Remember now, nothing to eat until dinner this evening."

"Thought you were my pal," he mumbled to Moe.

"You'll find out 10 years from now that I was," replied Moe.

Joe Cronin Takes to Bed With Bad Cold

SARASOTA, Fla., March 18—Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, who failed to play in the National League-American League All-Star contest in Tampa, came back to Sarasota early today and went to bed immediately, suffering from the cold which has been bothering him for the past week.

He was forced to stay at home while the club traveled to Sebring to play Newark.

Dom DiMaggio, injured ankle and all, made the trip and held a family reunion there with brothers Joe and Tom.

Engen Brothers Win Ski Honors

SEATTLE March 18 (AP)—The brothers Engen, Alf and Sverre—ranked one-two in Pacific Coast all-around skiing prowess today.

Alf, national jumping champion from Sun Valley, Ida., won the national four-way skiing championships by piling up 208.5 points in downhill, slalom, cross-country and jumping competition.

Alf's little brother Sverre placed second with 207.18.

Alf was third in the downhill and first in the slalom over difficult courses at Mt. Baker Wednesday and Thursday. He blistered both feet in the 11-mile cross-country race in Snoqualmie Pass Saturday in which he placed fourth, but he disregarded the tender tootsies to leap 200 and 220 feet and capture the jumping event Sunday.

Then, in special competition to beat his chief jumping rival, young Torger Tokle of New York said, what judges said was the best leaping display they had ever seen.

Frisch Cracks Whip Over Pirates Heads

By Associated Press

Frankie Frisch will go down in the books as the toughest manager in baseball this year . . . If you don't believe it, ask the Pirates.

Billie Mead and Henry Armstrong are taking the baths at Hot Springs . . . Bill Hayes (known to you as the millionaire umpire) says he's a long ways from that mark . . . Bill will call 'em in the Canadian-American League this year.

The Colorado U. basketeers, who won the Garden invitation tournament, will be wined and dined for a day by the Colorado Congressional delegation before heading West for Kansas City and the N. C. A. A. Western regional playoffs.

Cliff Bacon, the catching bad boy, is making a fine comeback with the Buffalo Bisons of the International League . . . Ernie Quigley, supervisor of umpires in the National League, was in charge of officiating at the national basketball tournament at Kansas City.

Connie Mack may not know it, but he's boarding a carbon copy of Rube Waddell in Jennings Poindexter . . . The Chicago Tribune says the repercussion from the U. of Chicago's attack on intercollegiate football apparently has left the game in the middle west in a stronger position than it has been in years.

Unless they elevate one of the assistant coaches, Florida is going to have a tough time finding somebody to succeed Josh Cody.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—Frankie Frisch plans to carry a full crew of Pittsburgh Pirates almost up to May 15, when major league squads must be cut to 25 players. His idea is to get a good look at the rookies under fire. After the cut the squad will number 10 pitchers, three catchers, six infielders and six outfielders.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—A lively stepper in the Grapefruit League, the Detroit Tigers were seeking their sixth straight victory today as they engaged the St. Louis Cardinals. The hospital list of the Redbirds was reduced by the recovery of Johnny Mize and Curt Davis, however, and they hoped to square accounts.

CLEARWATER, Fla. — Hopes that Hugh Casey would have a good year with the Brooklyn Dodgers were bolstered by his performance against the Boston Red Sox yesterday. He allowed only one hit in five innings and set down his first 11 foes in order.

ORLANDO, Fla.—His teammates on the Washington Senators are discovering that Sid Hudson, rookie pitcher who held the Detroit Tigers hitless for three innings yesterday, gets his power from height rather than heft. He weighs only 175, but stands six feet four. A recruit from the Class D Florida League, he is being counted on to support Dutch Leonard as a regular for Washington.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians isn't worried a bit by the fact Bob Feller didn't shine in the All-Star game yesterday. Vitt had ordered Feller to take things easy and told Catcher Rollie Hemsley to see that the Iowa flash followed instructions. Both obeyed orders.

LOS ANGELES—The Chicago Cubs took on their Los Angeles farm hands today and it doesn't require any guessing to say that Manager Gabby Hartnett's eyes were on young Lon Novikoff, the slugger whom Hartnett wants to replace Hank Leiber in center field.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Bantering Buck Newsom is gone, but the St. Louis Browns claim to have his successor in Jack (Showboat) Kramer, 22-year-old sophomore with an inimitable vocabulary.

With a record of nine victories and 16 defeats last year as a rookie, Kramer says he'll be great this year. He got his name because of his cockiness in camp.

SEBRING, Fla—The Boston Red Sox put their rookie hopefuls to work today against Newark of the International League and planned to do the same tomorrow in an exhibition game against their Louisville farmhands of the American Association. The regulars looked ahead to Wednesday's clash with the St. Louis Cardinals.

ANAHEIM, Cal. — Clint Brown, the Chicago White Sox ace relief pitcher, who got a late training start because of his holdout siege, prepared to make his mound debut today against the Philadelphia Athletics.

BRADENTON, Fla.—The New York Giants are encouraged by the way their representatives starred in yesterday's all-star contest. But the best signs for Manager Bill Terry came on the previous days as the club showed all around vigor in beating the New York Yankees and Washington Senators.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Just when there was beginning to be some question whether Lefty Lee Grissom would be a fit companion for that other southpaw wonder of the New York Yankees, Lefty Gomez, the former made it clear he would qualify.

In yesterday's game with the St. Louis Cards, Grissom took two strikes batting lefthanded, then crossed the plate and took a called third strike from a righthanded position.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—The veteran Walter Beck should save many games for the Phillies this year. The ace fireman of the Phils last year showed himself in good shape yesterday in holding the Boston Bees to two hits and no runs in three innings.

ANAHEIM, Cal.—Benny McCoy is hitting only .267 for the Philadelphia Athletics, but Connie Mack is sure his $45,000 beauty will be meeting the ball solidly by the time the season opens. McCoy has been at bat 30 times in 14 games and collected eight hits, four singles and four doubles. He has driven in four runs and scored five himself.

TAMPA, Fla.—Manager Bill McKechnie promises "plenty of work" for the Cincinnati Reds before their return to the Grapefruit League wars Tuesday. He thinks they looked "terrible" against the Red Sox Saturday. Another worry for the Reds concerns Ival Goodman's right shoulder, which he hurt in the All-Star game last summer. The injury has affected his throwing, and an operation may be necessary.

THE BRUINS will miss the services of Eddie Shore when they open the first game of their playoff series with the Rangers in the New York Garden tomorrow night. Shore has been slipping as one of the great stars of hockey for two or three years, but he is still a handy man to have around in an important series.

As a defense player, Shore is always in position. He has hockey instinct that enables him to be in the right spot at the critical moment of a game. During the past two years, Shore has lacked his old fire on the offense. He has made occasional dashes down the ice, but as a rule he has been content to remain near his defense position prepared to halt any threatening surge by the opposition.

What weakness the Bruins have shown this season has been on their defense. The team has terrific offensive power, and this may be sufficient to offset any defensive short comings the club may have.

The Bruins have a young hockey club, and so has completely recovered from the driving finish that enabled it to overtake the Rangers and gain the Prince of Wales Trophy by winning the National Hockey League championship.

As the Bruins started for New York today, Broadway was betting 6 to 5 that the Rangers would win the four out of seven series that starts tomorrow. The Rangers have had the edge in their clashes with the Bruins this season, and the supporters of the New York club believe that this margin will be maintained through the playoff clashes.

There will be a large delegation of Boston hockey fans at the Garden tonight.

Frank Ryan, publicity director of the Bruins, will be on the air from the Garden with the last period of the game, and possibly a part of the second period. Frank used to broadcast the Bruin games from the Arena when professional hockey was introduced into this city, and he may be relied upon to give a fast, accurate description of the contest.

Weston Adams, owner of the Bruins, will attend the opening of the playoffs. Charles F. Adams, father of Weston and the man responsible for bringing professional hockey to Boston, will not see any of the Stanley Cup games as he left for Washington by plane today, and will contniue on to Florida where he and Mrs. Adams will start cruising back to Boston aboard their yacht.

There is a wild scramble for tickets for the Bruins-Rangers second game which will be played at the Boston Garden on Thursday night. Only the capacity of the Garden will limit the crowd. The town is very much hockey minded. And to think that in less than a month the opening of the local baseball and horse racing seasons will be a matter of history, and we shall be trying to come up with the winner of the B. A. A. Marathon. Sports and the seasons move along rapidly.

Chmielewski Had Better of King

I AGREED with the decision of Referee Eddie Bradley that Henry Chmielewski, New England middleweight champion, had the better of Howell King, former Detroit Golden Glove champion, in their ten-round bout at Worcester. Chmielewski had a big lead going into the sixth round when he was dropped to the canvas for a short count by a left hook to the jaw. The New England champion lost the seventh and eighth sessions, but then came on to win the last two rounds. My tab gave Chmielewski five rounds, King three and two even.

At the time the match was made the contracts contained a clause to the effect that Chmielewski's New England middleweight title should not be at stake. This is why the distance of the bout was made ten rounds instead of twelve or fifteen.

Boston and Worcester promoters are already making efforts to re-match Chmielewski in a contest in which the latter's title will be at stake. Such a bout, if arranged, would be over the twelve or fifteen round distance.

A committee for the Polish Relief Committee is anxious to stage a bout that will find Chmielewski pitted against Ceferino Garcia or Al Hostak in either a New York or Boston ring.

BOWLING ENTRIES POUR IN

By PINFALL

Those entries are really starting to roll in.

A soft prediction right now would be that the coming American-Record-Advertiser Diamond Medal New England Championships will be the greatest bowling tournament ever held in this part of the country.

Judging from the response to the past four championships, this fifth annual affair which opens a week from Saturday at the Huntington Alleys is "tops."

One of the largest entry groups to date was received this morning from the S. S. Pierce Co. of Boston. The company not only entered an amateur team but also a crack quintet in the open. In addition, two of the "open" team will also roll in doubles and then split and take partners for the mixed doubles.

OPEN TEAM COMPETENT

The competent open team is made up of Richard Smith, Paul Hunson, Ernest Buxton, Charles Powers and George Bain with Walter Hinckley as the alternate. Smith and Hunson will team in the open doubles and then Smith will pair with Marie McCabe and Hunson with Mary Murphy in the mixed doubles.

The amateur team will be made up of Richard White, Nils Engstrom, Clarence March, John Mather and James Franey with Richard McConnell as the alternate.

In all probability, most of these team members will also take part in the singles which will boost the S. S. Pierce entry list to well over 25.

With the entries coming in so rapidly, the tourney committee decided to have a manager for the championships to supervise all activity.

FALLON IN CHARGE

After scanning the list of available men, Frank Fallon, who was formerly manager of the Kenmore Recreation alleys, was chosen.

Not only is Fallon an old hand at handling championships but he has been one of the top flight bowlers in New England for the past 20 years.

He will be in complete charge all during the two-week run of the championship to further insure this coming tourney of topping the past four brilliant events.

SAME OLD SHORE. Even though the New York Americans had clinched their place in the National Hockey League playoff series, and had nothing to gain in another victory, Eddie Shore, former Bruins leader, plays this consolation game with all his old fight and pep. Here, Shore (No. 2), falls on top of Bob Davidson (No. 4), in a mixup, both drawing major penalties for the flareup. Goalie Robertson, Conacher (No. 6) and Carr (No. 9), all of the Amerks, joined the battle. Hamilton (No. 5) of the beaten Toronto Maple Leafs tried to edge by the referee.

PICK RANGERS IN FIRST GAME

Hockey League championship by three points from the New York Rangers.

The third presentation went to Newton High for being voted the best local schoolboy hockey team of the year. Co-Captains Tom Dugan and Walter Hurley received the Eddie Shore plaque for the team.

ONLY 10 FOES ON SQUAD

As for the game itself, thrills were few. Knowing that nothing was at stake and refusing to risk any injuries, the Bruins just coasted along without handing out any punishment.

These tactics met with the unqualified approval of Les Canadiens who made the trip with 10 men and who would have wilted even worse had the Bruins put on any pressure.

From a scoring viewpoint, though, there were a few interesting results.

Perhaps the most satisfying was that Jack Crawford in hanging up the first goal of the night scored his first goal of the year. He had been the only Rossman on the squad who had failed to crease the strings, and having achieved his objective, the night was a complete success for him.

SCHMIDT CHAMPION

However, the major fact was the official winning of the National Hockey League individual scoring championship by Milt Schmidt with 52 points. To make matters all the more perfect, Porky Dumart and Bobby Bauer, the other two members of the Kraut line, wound up deadlocked for second place with 43 points.

This was the first time in the history of modern hockey that any line has ever taken the top three places in final point calculations for any one season.

Coming down to the details of the affair . . . Jack Crawford opened activities when he took a passout from Art Jackson who had been aided by Porky Dumart, and belted the disc home in 11:40. A little over three minutes later Toe Blake took a pass from Doug Young, came in with little difficulty and beat Brimsek easily to even the fray.

This must have given the Canadiens new courage, for just 43 seconds after the second period opened, Georges Mantha picked up a loose puck and with Clapper and Hamill caught down the ice he came in all by himself and that was that.

TIE IT UP AGAIN

The Bruins snapped out of their lethargy late in the period when Herb Cain stole the puck away from the careless Canadiens just a few feet away from the Montreal pipes and rifled it home to again deadlock the issue.

It was Red Hamill who came up with the fifth and really the winning goal of the night early in the final period. Red took a pass from Eddie Wiseman at the boards and just let fly. There was so much scrimmage around the nets that the short was screened and it whizzed right past Claude Bourque into the cage.

Bill Cowley picked up a valuable assist when he flipped the disc to linemate Roy Conacher who converted his rebound with a billiard shot while sprawled on the ice at 12:32.

FAIL TO AID COWLEY

This seemed to perk up the B's quite a bit for 22 second later Schmidt counted on a pass from Clapper and Porky Dumart added another 48 seconds later with assistance from Clapper and Bauer.

To add insult Flash Hollett chalked up seven in 17:53 with some aid by Art Jackson.

Cooney Weiland, the Bruins coach, made a desperate effort to get Bill Cowley one more assist or goal late in the game but to no avail.

Cowley teamed with Bauer and Dumart while Schmidt went on defense but it was no go and Cowboy Bill wound up the campaign tied for fifth with Bryan Hextall of the Rangers.

Eddie Boyle In N. E. Play

Cambridge had a representative in the New England schoolboy basketball tournament at Portland, Me., and a good one, too, in Eddie Boyle, one of the officials.

Eddie, who lives in Seagrave rd., was the only Massachusetts man named among the officials for the tourney, which was won by Bassick High of Bridgeport, but that wasn't anything new for him.

For since 1932, he's been the sole New England representative to referee in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League, and in 1936 he was singled out as one of the officials in the final games of the intercollegiate competition for the Olympic games.

Garden Scrapings

Quite a few fans were scheduled to make the trip to New York today but the majority of Bruins rooters will go over tomorrow afternoon.

All season ticket holders must pick up their ducats for Thursday night's game at the Garden by 3 o'clock Wednesday night . . . those remaining plus 2000 general admissions will go on sale at 9 o'clock the morning of the game.

BOYS' CLUB TOURNEY DATE SET

The Boys' Clubs of Boston annual amateur basketball tournament, looked forward to by scores of teams each year as the season's climax, will get underway on Monday, April 1, at the Eben D. Jordan Memorial Gymnasium, Charlestown.

The tourney each year attracts hundreds of quintets from every city and town within a 35-mile radius of Boston and includes outstanding players from high school, independent and club teams.

Despite the lateness of the season when the tournament is held, an ever-increasing enrollment has been the rule. The entry list last year exceeded the 300 team mark.

Classes remain the same as in previous years, as follows: Pygmy, 80 pounds and under; Midget, 90 to 100 pounds; Cub, 100 to 115 pounds; Junior, 115 to 130 pounds; Intermediate, 130 to 145 pounds, and Senior Class, unlimited as to weight, but restricted to players who do not exceed the age limit of 21 years.

Applications may be obtained by writing or calling at the Boys' Clubs of Boston, 15 Green st., Charlestown.

Red Strader Grid Coach At St. Mary's

MORAGA, Cal., March 18 (AP)—Norman P. "Red" Strader, assistant football coach at St. Mary's since 1932, succeeds the colorful Edward Patrick "Slip" Madigan as head coach.

A three-year-contract was ready for Strader's signature today. Financial details were not disclosed.

Madigan, coach for 19 years, during which he built St. Mary's into national gridiron prominence, was removed by the board of athletic control just a week ago. Madigan blamed personal enmity arising within the board.

Strader became St. Mary's first All-American by making Walter Camp's selection at fullback in 1925. He had a whirl at major league baseball as a catcher with Cleveland before becoming head coach at Regis College, Denver. From there he went to St. Mary's as assistant coach.

It was expected that Strader would retain Joe Reutz, former Notre Dame star, as an assistant.

Crawford Breaks Power Boat Record

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Andy Crawford, Washington, D. C., power boat racing driver, claimed a new world's record for 135-cubic inch hydroplanes today.

His average speed of 53.254 miles an hour over a five-mile course in the Southland regatta bettered the time of 52.173 set by J. L. Hyde, Jr., at Red Bank, N. J., last year. The new mark will be submitted to the American Power Boat Ass'n for recognition.

Buddy Hassett Injures Ankle; Lynn Boy in Battle for Berth

By BILL GRIMES

BRADENTON, Fla., March 18 —Buddy Hassett of the Boston Bees is sidelined for probably two weeks with an ankle injury, suffered in a game against Rochester Saturday. Carvell Rowell will fill in for him in right field. The Bees were booked against the New York Giants today.

When Manager Casey Stengel and his Bees debussed in front of the Manatee River Hotel today, John Quinn, the club's secretary, greeted them . . . Johnny hasn't been feeling so well of late and decided to try some Florida sun as a cure.

Joe Burns, who made his first trip South as a royal rooter with the Red Sox in 1907, called on his old friend Duffy Lewis over at West Palm Beach . . . So did Dinty Moore, famous New York restauranteur, and John D. Fahey, another Tauntonite . . .

STAN ANDREWS STARS

Lynn Stan Andrews is registering with Manager Casey Stengel . . . "Polo" has finally mastered the Lopez style of catching and he's going to take his turn this season, if he continues to improve as rapidly as he has this spring.

Bill McKechnie, manager of the National League champions, is taking the Grapefruit League games as seriously as he does the National League contests . . . So, he's not getting much of a kick out of the reverses his Reds have suffered.

I bumped into Ted Berghaus, one of the outstanding Montclair Mountaineer golfers, and "Doc" Watkins of the South Shore Country Club, at West Palm Beach . . . Mr. and Mrs. James Martin, Wellesley, checked in at the Royal Worth the day we left for Miami.

George Metkovich, 18-year-old first baseman, and Bill McElroy, a very promising kid hurler, got a great kick when Dick Conger, ex-U. C. L. A. pitcher, trying out with the Tigers, held the Cardinals to two hits for five innings . . . Metkovich and McElroy played on the same club with Conger out in L. A.

DUFFY LEWIS WINS WAR

Over at West Palm Beach, the hotel management attempted to slip a "baseball menu" over on Duffy Lewis . . . The Russo-Finnish war was a mere skirmish to Duffy's battle with the hotel manager . . . Duffy was awarded a unanimous decision . . .

Over at Miami, Billy Delaney, Frank, Joe, Hal and young Harry Stevens dropped in to visit with Casey Stengel and the Bees . . . So did Dave Wilson, Charlie Smart of Nantasket and J. A. "Rommie" Turrell of the Massachusetts Golf Ass'n.

Joe Lally, of the Clyde at., Brookline Lallys is professional at the Hollywood Country Club . . . He's doing all right . . . From 15 to 18 lessons per day . . . At $2.00 for a half hour and $3.00 per hour . . . Ken Cook, pro at the South Shore Country Club, is also at Hollywood.

TOBIN STARTS

Jim Tobin was to start on the mound for the Bees this afternoon against the Giants . . . After three rounds, he was to be relieved by Dick Errickson and one of the kids, maybe George Barnicle, could finish up . . . Al Piechota was slated to display his hurling, but his arm is not right . . . Dick Coffman starts against the Yankees tomorrow . . . While the varsity was at West Palm Beach and Miami, the Onslow brothers, Jack and Eddie, drove the jayvees through two sessions daily . . . Mayo Smith, who is a Lake Worth, Fla., boy and who was picked up by Dan Howley a couple of years ago, for the Toronto Maple Leafs, was married a week ago . . . Our Eddie Miller was the best man . . . Smith has been sold to Buffalo and reported to Manager Steve O'Neil at Plant City this morning.

After the 240-mile bus ride from Miami, the Bees expected trouble with the Giants this afternoon . . . However, Tony Cuccinello, Al Lopez and Slapsie Maxie West didn't make the swing over to the East Coast and were "right" for the encounter.

Wild Ducks On Increase

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) —Secretary Ickes urged today that federal shooting regulations for wildfowl be continued until "we have all the birls the marshes can accommodate."

Addressing the fifth annual North American Wildlife Conference, the Secretary of Interior said that the number of wild ducks had been approximately doubled since the waterfowl restoration program was inaugurated in 1934.

Managoff Faces Ernie Dusek at Arena

Bob Managoff, Sr., of a past generation of great wrestlers, will attempt to mastermind Bobby, Junior, into a spot as chief threat to the mat title Wednesday night at the Arena. Bob, Jr., comes to grips with Ernie Dusek, ace performer of another wrestling family.

Managoff has been a consistent winner all season.

Champ Steve Casey shares the limelight with Managoff this week, meeting Charley Strack.
